The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).
Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth. Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.
Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.

Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.
(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.
Numerology and Astrology are respectable sciences and are useful for proving your case.
Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.

Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.
"They laughed at Einstein, too!"

One cannot sully a "good name" that simply does not exist.

Mark has no such thing as a "good name".
In fact, Mark has done more harm to his personna than anybody else has done.
He has committed Social Suicide all by himself.

Look around. Look at his flames.
Look at his idiotic posts.
Look at his blogs.

Then ask yourself if Mark has a "good name".

The answer is painfully obvious, even to the mentally impaired visitors who frequent these groups.

I rest my case.

If you hadn't started posting information about you religious/sexual preferences in this NG, then nobody would be harassing you.. but - no = you have to continue to post & x-post this CRAP as a 2 year old - therefore you will continue to receive this CRAP right back.

Yes. Do you prefer that RRAP be known as a group of obsessed stalkers, or you intentionally don't use a spell checker because you think its so funny

if I am just trolling then you are doing as I wish the fact is you are ashamed or you would sign your name or call to your posts

instead YOU desperate spam and troll and forge and pretend you don't undersatnd you are a bad joke and a bad ham besides

Of course by your thinking everyone is ashamed in this NG because we write under a psudeo name - We are not stupid as you might want to think - years ago I signed my real call in here and got bombarded by you and you sucky rainbow friends - no I am not bashing any one - just making a statement!
I have some old friends that come under the same heading - but they don't get on in this NG and call attention to themselves the way you continually do!
You don't like the way you are being treated in this NG - then leave for a year or so - it will then dry up!
Keep up you ways and I am sure that "D" and friends will find a way to get you out of here - might take a while but it will happen, and this is in no way any threat - just another statement!

1711. Please take a minute out to report Mark's spews to Google

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2008-07-05 20:53:44 UTC
From: DeLorean <delorean@nim.bstrs>
Message-ID: <report.mark.once.per.day@nim.bstrs>
Source record: 219590
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy,rec.radio.cb

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too. We managed to get Teranews to block him, and now let's work on Google.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

Poor, delusional Mark. He's manufactured so many lies over the years that even HE is beginning to believe them.
First, what kind of screwball carries a knife into the shower with him?
Un-fucking believeable!
Only a mentally challenged person would even say idiotic things such as this, much less believe them.

Do they have rides in your fantasy land, Mark?

And, Mark? His name is DeLorean. Not "Delroans".

Goofy Mark has been trying that ploy for years. He childishly hopes to "shame" us posters into giving our personal info so as to, in his eyes, somehow validate our comments. His playground ploy is akin to a kid playing the double-dare ya game. And besides, who needs to validate themselves to Mister Oddball Morgan? Who is he to demand such? He's a nobody. A fool.
Besides, he's going to answer all of our posts anyway, so what is the difference?
As you have experienced, only the foolhardy would submit their names and callsigns to this group. Clearly you will not make that mistake again and the rest of us have learned not to do so due to the unfortunate experiences YOU had.

There are but two fools in this NG who submit their names and calls. Mark and Todd. And just look at all the grief that has been visited upon them because of their gross stupidity. And, on the same hand, it does not bode either of them well that one of them boasts of being a sexually aberrant oddball while the other boasts about his perverse affinity for and advertises kiddie porn cartoons and links.

OK, I think that might be more than I ever needed to know, but thanks. BTW, are you going to vote? If so, I suggest introducing yourself to Pinku-Sensei first, if he doesn't already know you. That way, he can be sure your ballot is valid, and not from a socked-up k00k.

TEH WAY OF THE K00K
Never learn from your mistakes.
Always practice your mistakes; you may get them right.
Always pick on those smarter and tougher than you.
Always believe that only you know the TRVTH.
Never allow logic or reason get in the way of a good k00k.
When being overwhelmed by logic and reason: k00ksuit!
If you are going to be wrong, do it at the top of your lungs.
When caught in a lie: LIE!
When in doubt: Order the Crab Won Ton
Plagiarism is your friend. Use it.
Whenever contradicted; morph, start calling people names, and make false accusations. Include the children of your target in your allegations, even if they don't have any.
(06-Jun-05) When nobody else will listen, post to your own fan group.
(06-Jun-05) Obviously, since you have your own fan group, this must mean that you have fans. Post prolifically to your fan group - you wouldn't want to disappoint them!
(10-May-2005)Everyone reads usenet. Approval here means approval everywhere.
Post numerous blank posts, or posts containing only a message id.
Post numerous copy&paste web articles from crackerpot websites.
Never forget to call kookologists "k00ks."
If there are several, call them "sockpuppets" too
When all else fails, accuse various and sundry kookologists of e-mailing viruses to you. This is a sure-fire method of garnering sympathy and ensuring that the General Public will always see things your way. An especially effective sub-strategy here is to accuse them of infecting you with the 'Sasser' worm via e-mail.
Quote notorious scientists or writers - it makes it look as if they approve the drivel you are writing!
(9-Jul-05) Anytime your computer is infected with a virus, bogged down by spyware, attacked over your internet connection, or otherwise suffers from preventable problems, government agencies are responsible and are trying to silence you and are monitoring your computer files.
Ignore all traffic signs and feel free to trespass, you don't have to obey any rules.
Scare your enemies with lawsuits, police escorts and whines.
Always back up your empty (albeit noisy) threats with phony LARTs, false police reports, and harassing letters to the FBI and other gubbermint agencies.

Be vigilant in your redundancy. The more you repeat yourself, the more likely others will believe you!
If you can't find anyone as crazy as yourself to support you in the flamewars you start with the normal population, create sock puppets and use anonymous remailers that shamelessly hang on every word you write.
(17-Mar-05) When dealing with law enforcement, remember that it is they who have the problem, not you. Be sure to inform them of this at every available opportunity, as they will surely appreciate your constructive criticism. Be sure to make them aware that YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS! ("The cops like that, when people know their rights. That way they don't have to read them to you on the way to the station." - George Carlin)
The more your fake personalities adulate you, the more respect you'll get!
When confronted with a reality that you don't like: Announce loudly that you are departing, never to return as long as there's an Internet. Come back in three or four days and claim you were drunk, hacked, abducted by alience, or forged. Alternately you can just not even mention your prior departure, and if anyone asks you about it, either ignore them or respond with something along the lines of "YOUR NOT THE BOSS OF ME! PLONK!" People really know you mean business then.
Always remain clueproof.
(20-Mar-05) Anyone who does not believe that you are the reincarnation of [$DEITY_OR_PROPHET] is obviously an infidel lacking in faith whose soul in in peril of everlasting damnation.
When responding to one line challenges, post paragraphs of rants and screed in response.
Incoherency is not a roadblock to poasting.
Neither is illiteracy.
Delusions poasted often enough become fact.
Claim you will destroy <insert newsfroup> for attacking you.
When spnaked, send cmsg for Fanboi newsfroup(s).
Find your Lame, Use your Lame, Be your Lame!
Post Edit when the TRVTH hurts.
Always sneck the offending newsfroups.
Always poast pictures of yourself so you can be admired in all your k00ky glory.
Always accuse others of the very acts you are guilty of.
Post lots of boasts about your high IQ and incredible talents.
(20-Mar-05) If you repeat a lie often enough, it becomes the truth. Anybody who fails to understand this is engaged in a deliberate campaign of misinformation and character assassination.
Always <plonk> somebody just before replying the plonkee!
The k00k considers itself the most intelligent person in any conversation, possibly on the planet. Other people are benighted and ignorant, and have been waiting their whole lives for the k00k to rescue them from intellectual darkness.
Write a self-published book and claim it a success. Bonus points for comparing it to "Mein Kampf" and/or the Bible.

Declare yourself equal to a deity of your choice.
Claim that you've come from other planets.
Claim thousands of past lives.
Frothing complaints carry far more weight when you send them from "legal@" some domain.
Nothing strikes terror into the hearts of your detractors more than telling them that you're archiving their messages for possible use in the future.
Never forget that everyone else posting to Usenet is a paid disinformation agent looking to discredit you.
Usenet is governed by US law. If a poster in Romania killfiles you, he's obviously violating your 1st Amendment rights and can be sued.
Every news admin in the world hangs out in NANAU, and they're just dying to nuke the account of that meanyhead who just called you "fucknozzle". Drop 'em a line - that's what they're there for, after all.
AUK will be closed down. Just you wait and see.
They've nuked hundreds of accounts in the name of free speech and yours will be next.
The k00k will, without any trace of irony, lie, manipulate, impersonate, censor, and declare themselves powerful in ways ranging from the ability to have an account shut down to being God Herself, in order to convince people that they are not liars, manipulators, censors, or insane.
Abuse women while telling how many hundreds you've loved. Nevermind that you're one ugly motherfucker and that there were 30,000 femininas that thought you were a scumbag with bad teeth.
Remember that your ko0ky klaims are 'facts', and that 'facts' do not require proof.
Do not neglect to poast your responses to forums that the originator doesn't read. This will make the people in that forum very impressed with how you tear him to shreds without him being able to respond. They like it even better if you are off-topic for that forum.
Keep in mind that lack of evidence supporting your konspiracy theory actually _is_ evidence, of how effective the konspiracy is in hiding.
(06-Oct-05) When spanked, always retreat to the safety of the Ad Hominem.
(04-Aug-2005) When spanked mercilessly for days on end, proving with each poast just what an illiterate and ignorant fool you are, ALWAYS claim ownership of [person(s),froup(s)]. This works on so many levels. It inspires dread in your opponents that they will no longer be able to poast in their home froup and that they will eventually have to pay rent, to name just two.
Any problems with your poasts are the fault of the konspirators, who are trying to stop you from preventing the extinction of humanity.
Konspiracies that are able to subvert whole governments are always unable to silence konspiracy ko0ks.
The entire United States government is willing to spend millions of dollars for the sole purpose of harassing you.
Hollywood is making movies based on your personal life.
Do not consult psychiatrists or other mental health professionals. They are part of the konspiracy, and will sedate you and lock you away and keep you drugged if you tell them the truth.

Everyone is Tim Hill, or David Green, or...
There is a fine line between trolling and kookery. Find that line and cross it repeatedly. When you are killfiled and/or LARTed for net.abuse as a result, claim victory. If you lose multiple accounts, this merely proves that you are indeed a world-class troll, with a black-belt in manipulation.
If you respond to every post someone else makes, they're obsessed. If they respond to less than 1% of your posts, they're even more obsessed.
Publishing people's real names, addresses, and phone numbers when there's no other way for you to come out of a flamewar with any dignity is cool, and proves that you are a master of secret internet information stores, and absolutely not to be fucked with.
Everyone is out to get you. You can put a stop to this by telling everyone that they're out to get you at every available opportunity.
You are the only sane one.
Those that give you a hard time about morally bankrupt things you yourself admit to are just persecutioners of the new inquisition.
Yelling in all caps and cursing at your detractors is debate. Your detractors laughing at you with sarcastic remarks is obvious anger and jealousy.
If doing something results in the loss of your account, legal hassles, or blunt trauma injury, do it again. It always works better the second time.
Asterisks, lots and lots of Asterisks.
Poking holes in kookscreed is stalking, and is a felony.
K00ks LOVE to "connect the dots". They are, of course, dots that only the k00k can see.

As far as I know, you're the only guy here that has sex with boys or men. In fact you have admitted to having sex with a 17 year old boy, right? (google has the posts)

Another fact -

You claimed to have thrown two boy lovers out the window after they banged you in the butt you sick freak.

And BTW who is Delorean?

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too. We managed to get Teranews to block him, and now let's work on Google.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

I must have missed that tale. I do recall Mark once telling us of how four guys tried to rape him in his alleged Army barracks one evening. He claimed that he kicked one in his private parts and threw another out a second story window. Mark further embellished this made-up fairy tale by saying that one of the attackers landed on the concrete below and bled to death. He said the others "ran off".
This tale is all that more dubious in that Mark has also claimed to have been an Officer. First he was a Lt Colonel and then downgraded himself to a mere Lieutentant. This after he also claimed that he was "drafted" into the Natl. Guard as an officer. Beginning to get the drift here?
In either case, Officers do NOT live in the barracks with enlisted men. Mark claims to have been at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Fort Sill has an extensive BOQ, Bachelor Officers Quarters, and Mark was unaware of this.
Mark's tale is a fantasy and his lies are too numerous to count. And to add insult to us, Mark also claims to hold three, count em', three Master's degrees. Yet he won't name a single college from whence these alleged degrees came from or what he majored in.

And to answer your question, DeLorean is Mark's worst dream come true. DeLorean was the person who saw to the demise of Mark's account with Teranews. Mark, through Teranews, was flooding these groups with as many as 300 posts a day, oftentimes more. DeLorean got the attention of Teranews and Mark's account was canceled.

Now you know why Mark is forced to post through Google and why Mark has several sock accounts with Google. He can post only so many times per day through Google per account, so he has several accounts to skirt their rules. It was because of the tireless efforts of DeLorean that Mark was summarily stifled and his hundreds of flames came to a screeching halt.
Oh, and back to Mark's alleged three degrees. He once claimed to be a geophysisist and spouted off about some of his alleged "research" with acclaimed fellows in the field. After officiously trying to impress this group, DeLorean called him out and branded him as a liar.
Unfortunately for Mark, DeLorean is a REAL geophysisist and had once worked side-by-side with the accclaimed scientist that Mark had claimed to know and to have worked beside. Mark was again caught in another lie, and he never responded, hoping again that another of his lies would go unnoticed and unmentioned.
The pattern here is that Mark is a congenital liar. In fact, it is dubious that Mark even realizes when he is lying.

We all owe DeLorean a pat on the back for his efforts.
Mark is a hopeless goon.

I don't believe we(tinw) can possibly get any lamer than a bunch of homo-/biphobic, obsessed, blackmailing, stalking, anonymous cowards, who are so frightened of their own sexuality that they can't stop themselves from subconsciously revealing it, in a frenzy of socking-up as the guy they once tried to force off the air, or alternatively as his wife. But YMMV.

Did you call me a failed blackmailer? Post proof that I have ever

1874. Please help us report Mark's spews to Google

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy
Date: 2008-07-07 11:54:26 UTC
From: DeLorean <delorean@nim.bstrs>
Message-ID: <report.mark.daily@nim.bstrs>
Cross-posted to: rec.radio.amateur.misc,rec.radio.amateur.policy

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

Choose almost any thread, and then pick out one of Mark's "zzz..." or other messages. You should see something similar to what is pictured at the link below:

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too. We managed to get Teranews to block him, and now let's work on Google.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

Or at least it may appear to them that they do. Dressing in woman's clothes may not be the height of fashion, but crossdressers generally do pay more attention to style than most men. Have you ever wondered - what if crossdressing was normal? I muse in this direction here:
http://www.crossdresserheaven.com/2008/06/crossdressing-.html

But seriously, what if crossdressing was an accepted social style - another way to dress and express your personality, rather than something all entwined with sexual overtones or shame and guilt? Let me know what you think.

Think about it.

A man is showering up in a locker room with his buddy when he notices his friend is very well endowed.

"Damn Bob, you're hung!" Jim exclaims.

"I wasn't always this impressive, I had to work for it."

"What do you mean?" Jim asked.

"Well, every day for the past two years I've spent an hour each night rubbing it with butter. I know it sounds crazy but it actually made it grow 4 inches! You should try it."

Jim agrees and the two say good bye.

A few months later the two are in the same locker room and Bob asks Jim how his situation was.

Jim replied, "I did what you said, Bob, but I've actually gotten smaller! I lost two inches already!"

"Did you do everything I told you? An hour each day with butter?"

"Well, I was out of butter, so I've been using Crisco."

"Crisco!!?" Bob exclaimed. "Damm it, Jim, Crisco is shortening!

MORAL: You got to follow the recipe!!!

They can't grow up, Michael, because then they'd have to face their own sexuality, which is very gay. You can tell they're gay, because they're so fixated on gay fantasies. Never heard of any straight guys who thought about licking balls or giving head.

However, what you can do is enjoy the insanity of their k00ky childishness and increasingly frantic attempts to get Mark off ham radio once and for all by slagging him off on usenet, because it's so foamy and sad. It's a tad mean, perhaps, to derive schadenfreude out of them, that way, but they do their part by being so pathetic.

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

Man made coordinate systems are fine without knowing from where or what is the base essence of what the space as deduced field is composed of, but not totally satisfactory. A 36 year old female had an accident several weeks ago and totaled her car. A resident of Kilgore, Texas she was traveling between Gladewater & Kilgore. It was raining, though not excessively, when her car suddenly began to hydroplane and literally flew through the air. She was not seriously injured but very stunned at the sudden occurrence!

When she explained to the highway patrolman what had happened, he told her something that every driver should know - NEVER DRIVE IN THE RAIN WITH YOUR CRUISE CONTROL ON. She thought she was being cautious by setting the cruise control and maintaining a safe consistent speed in the rain.

But the highway patrolman told her that if the cruise control is on when your car begins to hydroplane and your tires lose contact with the pavement, your car will accelerate to a higher rate of speed making you take off like an airplane. She told the patrolman that was exactly what had occurred.

The patrolman said this warning should be listed, on the driver's seat sun-visor - NEVER USE THE CRUISE CONTROL WHEN THE PAVEMENT IS WET OR ICY, along with the airbag warning. We tell our teenagers to set the cruise control and drive a safe speed - but we don't tell them to use the cruise control only when the pavement is dry.

The only person the accident victim found, who knew this (besides the patrolman), was a man who had a similar accident, totaled his car and sustained severe injuries.

If you send this to 15 people, and only one of them doesn't know about this, then it was all worth it. You might have saved a life.

NOTE: Some vehicles (like the Toyota Sienna Limited XLE) will not allow you to set the cruise control when the windshield wipers are on.

WHY DON'T ALL VEHICLES HAVE THIS FEATURE????

This is why women should not take men shopping against their will.

After I retired, my wife insisted that I accompany her on her trips to Walmart.

Unfortunately, like most men, I found shopping boring and preferred to get in and get out. Equally unfortunately, my wife is like most women - - she loved to browse. Yesterday my dear wife received the following letter from the local Wal-Mart.

Dear Mrs. Klepinger,
Over the past six months, your husband has been causing quite a commotion in our store. We cannot tolerate this behavior and have been forced to ban both of you from the store. Our complaints against Mr. Klepinger are listed below and are documented by our video surveillance cameras.

1. June 15: Took 24 boxes of condoms and randomly put them in people's carts when they weren't looking.

2. July 2: Set all the alarm clocks in Housewares to go off at 5-minute intervals.

3. July 7: Made a trail of tomato juice on the floor leading to the women's restroom.
4. July 19: Walked up to an employee and told her in an official voice, Code 3 in Housewares. Get on it right away.

5. August 4: Went to the Service Desk and tried to put a bag of M&M's on layaway.

6. August 14: Moved a 'CAUTION - WET FLOOR' sign to a carpeted area.

7. August 15: Set up a tent in the camping department and told other shoppers he'd invite them in if they would bring pillows and blankets from the bedding department.

8. August 23: When a clerk asked if they could help him he began crying and screamed, 'Why can't you people just leave me alone?'
9. September 4: Looked right into the security camera and used it as a mirror while he picked his nose.

10. September 10: While handling guns in the hunting department, he asked the clerk where the antidepressants were.

11. October 3: Darted around the store suspiciously while loudly humming the 'Mission Impossible' theme.

12. October 6: In the auto department, he practiced his 'Madonna look by using different sizes of funnels.

13. October 18: Hid in a clothing rack and when people browsed through, yelled 'PICK ME! PICK ME!'

14. October 21: When an announcement came over the loud speaker, he assumed a fetal position and screamed 'OH NO! IT'S THOSE VOICES AGAIN!'

And last, but not least.

15. October 23: Went into a fitting room, shut the door, waited awhile, then yelled very loudly, 'Hey! There's no toilet paper in here!'

Regards,
Tom Richards

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too. We managed to get Teranews to block him, and now let's work on Google.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they posed as an underage person and agreed to do all sorts of sex acts wioth adult males, and they are adults posing as teenager themselves. There were once two cowboys, one from Big State and the other from Another State, riding the range when suddenly they came upon a poor sheep with its head stuck in a fence.

Well, the temptation was too much for the Another State cowboy and he quickly leapt from his horse and has his way with the sheep.

Upon completing his dirty deed, he stepped back and asked his buddy from Big State if he wanted some.

"You bet!" was his enthusiastic reply and he jumped down from his horse and stuck his head through the fence.

well an ontopic post congrats CC

in answer I will relate the experence of another Ham I know. was on Carnival cruise lines I think he asked the steward or asst stewrad about contacting the capt about such permission next day got a sowhat looked like a form letter giving permission except within an hour of making port or the hour after leaving each stop

so I would guess the cruise lines have policies buthe duty of the Stewartd or perser (depending on the titles) is to interface for you on whatever you need for your trip

Have you ever even heard of a .sig? FYI, Mr. Cranston is a real-lifing stalker-k00k, much like Punceorama (and, I suspect, yo' bad self), who is receiving an extended education as to what exactly can be said to constitute "libel", which does not, unfortunately for him, include being called a "dogfucker" on usenet. I shall, in due course, remove the education from my .sigs, when I feel that it has properly sunk in through the foot of steel-reinforced concrete he calls a skull, as it lacks humour, to my mind. As one of his owners, however, it is incumbent upon me to train him.

As for where he practices, I don't really know, since I haven't heard from him in over a year, and I'm not a stalker.

It is always nice to catch the our hero, the blathering fool in another one of his lies. On his blog he posted "well the violence resumes at about 6:35 this morning I was awakened not by the expected return of my wife form the renfaire but the sound of motors.

And then he posts on here that it was still dark...the sunrise in Houghton is 6:10 am. Plenty of light 25 minutes after sunrise, except maybe Fatty was blocking all of the sunlight with his fat ass.

well an ontopic post congrats CC

in answer I will relate the experence of another Ham I know. was on Carnival cruise lines I think he asked the steward or asst stewrad about contacting the capt about such permission next day got a sowhat looked like a form letter giving permission except within an hour of making port or the hour after leaving each stop

so I would guess the cruise lines have policies buthe duty of the Stewartd or perser (depending on the titles) is to interface for you
on whatever you need for your trip

you can't even figure out the house ground yet, marqueer. now you're giving out advice?!?!?!?!?! lol

Brad Jesness Memorial Kook Appraisal Test (KAT or KAT Index) v. 5.1 by Cipher and the a.u.k crew

So, you think you've got a contender, eh? Hard to separate the Kooks from the mere pains in the ass though. Hopefully this will help you.

Instructions :
In this section give your Prospective Kook ONE point for every YES answer. Give your Prospective Kook additional points for multiple occurrences.

Grading scale follows questions.

Have they ever :

1. Been the first to go ad-hominem in a newsgroup debate.

2. Accused someone of breaking a non-existent Federal Law.

3. Called a properly formatted cancel of a BI>20 article a forged cancel

14. Been TOSsed and then claimed to have canceled it, her/it/himself?

(*) PalmJob Exception Rule. Cannot be applied to a mere troll's points.

() Brad Jesness Factor. Not applicable to BJ, it is expected.

1 - 10 points : Kook Wannabe. Needs to read Grubor's posting history on dejanews. Your Prospective Kook has much to learn. They may have just screwed up once or twice.

11 - 25 points : Journeyman Kook. Needs to Continue to mimic the real kooks. Your Prospective Kook could be a contender.

26 - 36 points : Kook First Class. Still a lesser light, but Your Prospective Kook HAS arrived! People killfile him/her.

51 + points : Kook Magna cum Laude. Your Prospective Kook has a FAQ. Your Prospective Kook will eventually win all the big awards. Your Prospective Kook can leap tall newbies with a single bound.

DeLorean: Be advised, if you take this action to its conclusion and manage to get Mark's account banned, in reprisal for his attempts to muffle his stalker, the paltry bit of spamming he has done will one day be looked back upon as the "good old days", and I can assure you that is no mere threat. Instead, I suggest you focus your efforts on LARTing the k00k who is obsessed with Morse Code -- the one to whom I am replying, who is also known as "Punceorama", and various takes on Mark's name, his wife's, and his callsign. The vast majority of his posts consist of a single word, such as the above, and are devoid of informative or entertaining content. His intent is to harass Mark off of ham radio, due to Mark's lack of ability with Morse, and has additionally become an intent to get him off usenet.

April, as long as an obsessed k00k such as Punceorama is running around loose and unidentified, any civility in your group lasts only as long as he decides it's allowed to last. Now, getting him properly tagged will take a few years, maybe five, but when it's done, there will be a full FAQ on him, and you will more than likely know if he's really Woger or Lloyd or whomever. Thereafter, he'll be a lot easier to identify and killfile, and I may well have another Dog Whistle.;-{P}

The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them

up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

No, Mike, ignoring k00ks (such as my obsessed little slave, Punceorama) never works. An essential part of what makes them k00ks is an absolute conviction that they are right and correct in all they do, and that they can therefore do whatever they see as necessary, up to and including real-life stalking of anyone deemed to be an "enemy", or even assault, kidnapping, and murder.

8. OK, so who's this "Dev McKinHole", then?

I dunno, some guy named Devon McKinnon of Dawson Creek, allegedly, and according to the Monkey, a pedophile. However, I wouldn't take that too seriously. The Monkey keeps changing his mind about who I am, so there's no reason to think he won't change it about Mr. McKinnon, too.

Mark's a winner of AUK's Golden Killfile Award, and for just cause. Why would I slurp a convicted k00k, coward? His k00kiness does not mean that you aren't a k00k -- you are, in fact, a bigger k00k, for carrying on your crusade to intimidate Mark off of ham radio for over a decade, solely because he doesn't know Morse code. Since Mark is dyslexic, it's rather obvious that Morse would not be his forte, but you have a speshul brane, I can tell.

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too. We managed to get Teranews to block him, and now let's work on Google.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

Yea, right! If he really shot at someone, the cops would have taken HIM to jail for attempted murder. You can't use deadly force against someone for a property crime (not involving potential loss of life). What a delusion!

Ethel was a bit of a demon in her wheelchair, and loved to charge around the nursing home, taking corners on one wheel and getting up to maximum speed on the long corridors while talking on her HAM RADIO..

Because the poor woman was one sandwich short of a picnic the other residents tolerated her and some of them actually joined in.

One day Ethel was speeding up one corridor when a door opened and Kooky Clarence stepped out with his arm outstretched. 'STOP!,' he shouted in a firm voice. 'Have you got a license for that thing?' Ethel fished around in her handbag and pulled out a Kit Kat wrapper and held it up to him. 'OK' he said, and away Ethel sped down the hall.

As she took the corner near the TV lounge on one wheel, weird Harold popped out in front of her and shouted 'STOP! Have you got proof of insurance?'

Ethel dug into her handbag, pulled out a drink coaster and held it up to him. Harold nodded and said 'On your way, Ma'am.'

As Ethel neared the final corridor, Crazy Craig stepped out in front of her, Butt- Naked, and holding his 'You-Know- What' in his hand. 'Oh, good grief,' yelled Ethel, 'Not that Damn Breathalyzer Test again .!!!'

(NOW I DON'T CARE WHO YOU ARE, BUT THIS IS FUNNY!)

YES, I'M A SENIOR CITIZEN!

I'm the life of the party..... even if it lasts until 8 p.m.
I'm very good at opening childproof caps... with a hammer. I'm usually interested in going home before I get to where I am going.
I'm awake many hours before my body allows me to get up.
I'm smiling all the time because I can't hear a thing you're saying.
I'm very good at telling stories; over and over and over and over...
I'm aware that other people's grandchildren are not nearly as cute as mine.
I'm so cared for --- long term care, eye care, private care, dental care.

I'm not really grouchy,

I just don't like traffic, waiting, crowds, lawyers, loud music, unruly kids, Jenny Craig and Toyota commercials, barking dogs, politicians and a few other things I can't seem to remember right now.

I'm sure everything I can't find is in a safe se cure place, somewhere.
I'm wrinkled, saggy, lumpy, and that's just my left leg.
I'm having trouble remembering simple words like.....
I'm beginning to realize that aging is not for wimps.
I'm sure they are making adults much younger these days, and when did they let kids become policemen?
I'm wondering, if you're only as old as you feel, how could I be alive at 150?
And, how can my kids be older than I feel sometimes?

I'm a walking storeroom of facts..... I've just lost the key to the storeroom door.

Yes, I'm a SENIOR CITIZEN and I think I am having the time of my life!

Now if I could only remember who sent this to me, I wouldn't send it back to them, but I would send it to many more!

Now- Have I already sent this to you???????

If so, I'll try not to do it again (for a while.)

at about 6:35 this morning I was awakened not by the expected return of my wife form the renfaire but the sound of motors.

the motors belong to an ATV that had managed to get a rope onto my tower (30 foot wooden structure and was puling the tower down

O got sever round with the shotgun did not score a good hit but but the cops found blood on the treea dn the trails lead back to n rover river road after a bit where it stop and free tire marks (looks like one of the pickups that carry atv's around here)

the rope parted and no real damage to the anttenas was done although my masting needs work to make it stable again

have had loads of fun with the cops over the matter

I wonder what poor kid (I could see he was not more than say 16 ish) the nutjobs conned into making the attack and with what lie sad realy in michigan deadly force is expressly authorized to defend my property or my person in "anyplace I may lawfully be" such shooting are shooting are comon enough to barely be noteworthy around here

BTW iy was not an attempt to to shoot I shoot someone outside my home but inside my land while trying to damgae my home, perhapops even with the intent to gain entry

the most note worthy thing is that it seem to be a teen not an adult and the the boy has NOT gotten proper medical attention even now

But I am not required to determine he is armed (althought eh venchile can in some cases be considered as being armed right there)I am no longer required to attempt retreat at about 6:35 this morning I was awakened not by the expected return of my wife form the renfaire but the sound of motors.

the motors belong to an ATV that had managed to get a rope onto my tower (30 foot wooden structure and was puling the tower down

O got sever round with the shotgun did not score a good hit but but the cops found blood on the treea dn the trails lead back to n rover river road after a bit where it stop and free tire marks (looks like one of the pickups that carry atv's around here)

the rope parted and no real damage to the anttenas was done although my masting needs work to make it stable again

have had loads of fun with the cops over the matter

I wonder what poor kid (I could see he was not more than say 16 ish) the nutjobs conned into making the attack and with what lie sad realy in michigan deadly force is expressly authorized to defend my property or my person in "anyplace I may lawfully be" such shooting are shooting are comon enough to barely be noteworthy around here

BTW iy was not an attempt to to shoot I shoot someone outside my home but inside my land while trying to damgae my home, perhapops even with the intent to gain entry

the most note worthy thing is that it seem to be a teen not an adult and the the boy has NOT gotten proper medical attention even now

But I am not required to determine he is armed (althought eh venchile can in some cases be considered as being armed right there)I am no longer required to attempt retreat

1] He accuses everyone of being SOMEONE CALLED Dloyd
2] It is interesting that someone who seem afraid of someone coming on his/hers property to do harm that he/she would continually post his/hers address and make some kind of statement about doing bodily harm to that person - isn't that PREMEDITATION?

Why don't you read it where they tell these victims of their deceit about how they have been with grown men and such? Mark has no sensible rationale for the malarkie that he posts. Mark's

We all know that Mark's "facts" are twisted like a noodle in a of old English laws that have long been swept away.

Dloyd is a name I have not seen in a while, but this person routinely handed Mark his ass on a daily basis, and made Mark go on a continuous whine for a few years.

Good reading, and it appears that the use of deadly force is not justified in someone vandalizing a non-residential structure.

But just watch for a few weeks, Mark will evolve the story to put the prep in his home or that he threatend him with a weapon, typical Moragnspeak with the every changing story. Nevertheless, we all know that the whole affair is nothing but a fabrication and it never really happened. Mark appears to be a verbois story teller.

Is there an Open Season on teenagers in the Upper Peninsula?
What is the age limit? Must they be male or can Mark shoot at females, too?
How many teenagers can one "bag" during the season?
Shotguns or rifles or muzzle loaders?
Must they have horns? A Driver's license? A Learner's Permit? Is there a weight limit?
Are Yiddish kids exempt?

Apparently it is Open Season at Mark's Fantasy Land in Chassell, Michigan.

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

Choose almost any thread, and then pick out one of Mark's "zzz..." or other messages. You should see something similar to what is pictured at the link below:

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

I am not WOGER
I am not De
I am not your FRIEND
I am NOT A FAKE

Your have some very serious problems - it would appear that your momma who wears combat boots DROPPED you on your head while giving birth to you. You keep repeating yourself in every one of your contaminated posts. You keep accusing everyone of being someone else, and then when they answer you, you keep calling them a FAKE! That puts you in the class of being a first class NAG! You need to seek a mental health doctor as soon as possible - maybe some pills - maybe some faster acting main line chemicals! Maybe they should commit you to a hospital in a ward with other mental deranged patients - where they can lock the doors and you wouldn't have access to the internet!

I am not who you think I am!

If one were psychologically capable of pulling one's demonette head out of one's gayboy demonette male Playgirl posing head, one would at least stand a chance.

That will not happen here, with you.

First, you're simply too stupid, and you can't accept you are not intelligent. This scares you, and makes you angry, the equivalent to walking up behind the Vice President, and yelling "hey fatboy, get the lead out."

Meaning, he's really dumb, and it's frustrating to smart people, who continually urge him to THINK A LITTLE FASTER, AND BETTER, LIKE REAL SMART PEOPLE, DO

That simply will not happen, ever, he is not capable.

And then, Danny and the juniors, will surround him, singing in their finest brooklynese "
"You can Lieber you can Stroller at the hop..."

ah, poor thing, messing with insanity in this manner, who knows what picture YOUR subconscious will paint, or even the artist painting it..

And you thought PORN was outstanding, silly, the porn is YOU like alt.surrealism, but done by smart people, not you.

According to a news report, a certain private school in Washington was recently faced with a unique problem. A number of 12-year-old girls had begun to use lipstick and would put it on in the bathroom. That was fine, but after they put on their lipstick they would press their lips to the mirror, leaving dozens of little lip prints. Every night the maintenance man would remove them and the next day the girls would put them back.

Finally the principal decided that something had to be done. She called all the girls to the bathroom and met them there with the maintenance man. She explained that all these lip prints were causing a major problem for the custodian who had to clean the mirrors every night (you can just imagine the yawns from the little princesses).

To demonstrate how difficult it was to clean the mirrors, she asked the maintenance man to show the girls how much effort was required. He took out a long-handled squeegee, dipped it in the toilet, and cleaned the mirror with it.

Since then, there have been no lip prints on the mirror.
There are teachers.... and then there are educators.

Q: Why do they say that eating yogurt and oysters will improve your sex life?
A: Because if you'll eat that stuff, you'll eat anything.

==========

Looking for a little variety in his sex life, the husband bought a computer and started exploring the Internet.
He stumbled onto IRC chat and next thing you know, he was heavily into NetSex.

Well, one late night session was going really hot and heavy, but for some reason the one partner stopping typing.

Thinking that his hot lil' number had been disconnected, the man typed: "Are you still there?"

The reply appeared back on his screen: "Wait a minute, my Mommy just came into the room."

How do you "know" none of it happened? Are you his neighbour? If so, things are getting seriously out of hand in RRAP. Usenet and real life are not meant to combine.

They are awash in their self-proclaimed glory after they posed as an underage person and agreed to do all sorts of sex acts wioth adult males, and they are adults posing as teenager themselves. They make themsleves into liars by falsely impersonating underage persons and by not fuilfilling the words they tell the victims online in their chats. Why don't you read it where they tell these victims of their deceit about how they have been with grown men and such? Why don't you read it where they say, "That would be cool." after someone makes an advance towards an adult who is posing as a teenager? And, where they agree to meet the person, etc.

Lost control, didn't you?
Is that why you feel as if you need to lie so much now? I see where lots of these false impersonation games are not sticking. They feel as if they can lie and then order the victims to get counseling in the gayblade, governmental, pro-choice tax leech counseling centers. HER DIARY:

Tonight, I thought my husband was acting weird. We had made plans to meet at a bar to have a drink.

I was shopping with my friends all day long, so I thought he was upset at the fact that I was a bit late, but he made no comment on it.

Conversation wasn't flowing, so I suggested that we go somewhere quiet so we could talk. He agreed, but he didn't say much. I asked him what was wrong; he said, 'Nothing.'

I asked him if it was my fault that he was upset. He said he wasn't upset, that it had nothing to do with me, and not to worry about it.

On the way home, I told him that I loved him. He smiled slightly, and kept driving. I can't explain his behavior. I don't know why he didn't say, 'I love you, too.'

When we got home, I felt as if I had lost him completely, as if he wanted nothing to do with me anymore.

He just sat there quietly, and watched TV. He continued to seem distant and absent.

Finally, with silence all around us, I decided to go to bed. About 15 minutes later, he came to bed.

To my surprise, he responded to my caress, and we made love. But I still felt that he was distracted, and his thoughts were somewhere else. He fell asleep - I cried. I don't know what to do.I'm almost sure that his thoughts are with someone else. My life is a disaster.

HIS DIARY:
Harley wouldn't start today, but at least I got laid.

N9OGL@HOTMAIL.COM IS A FAKE!!! This person has stolen my Identity and is using it to spam the Usenet. This same person is an amateur radio operator who runs a website called http://www.ve7kfm.com and http://nimbusters.com these site promote abusive behavior toward people they do not like, including but not limited to abusing and harassing people, setting up websites for the sole purpose of abusive behavior, having the individuals they don't like kicked off the INTERNET, reporting them to local and the federal government, including the FCC, the local police NSA and the FBI, sending letters to the local paper with frivolous information, DOS attacking them and or blocking their access through different means including Computer Virus. Have their websites removed by using the sites own flagging system against them. Meanwhile the Federal government and even their local ISP will no do anything about these individuals, instead they are allowed to do it, and is even got the government and their ISP blessing to continue to do it. SO-CALLED civil liberties groups like the ACLU and the EFF don't give a shit that these individuals along with the US GOVERNMENT AND THEIR ISP'S ARE SUPPRESSING FREE SPEECH.

What, like al-Qaeda did it, acting alone? The "Lone Conspiracy" conspiracy theory? Sorry, but your country is foaming at the mouth, these days, so I don't give it credence. Kidnappers and torturers have no room to talk about crazy. Anyway, this is for you (and Woger):

"The authors investigated the role of homosexual arousal in exclusively heterosexual men who admitted negative affect toward homosexual individuals. Participants consisted of a group of homophobic men (n = 35) and a group of nonhomophobic men (n = 29); they were assigned to groups on the basis of their scores on the Index of Homophobia (W. W. Hudson & W. A. Ricketts, 1980). The men were exposed to sexually explicit erotic stimuli consisting of heterosexual, male homosexual, and lesbian videotapes, and changes in penile circumference were monitored. They also completed an Aggression Questionnaire (A. H. Buss & M. Perry, 1992). Both groups exhibited increases in penile circumference to the heterosexual and female homosexual videos. Only the homophobic men showed an increase in penile erection to male homosexual stimuli. The groups did not differ in aggression. Homophobia is apparently associated with homosexual arousal that the homophobic individual is either unaware of or denies."

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

it holds even into the quantum but there observational confirmation is limited or non existent. That's the problem and the major stumbling block to field unification. For Dr. Einstein held out that a physical uncertainty of how the universe primly base works. Man made coordinate systems are fine without knowing from where or what is the base essence of what the space as deduced field is composed of, but not totally satisfactory. Anomalies keep space cropping up and scientists have to keep adjusting for these unexpected events. It's like a blind man that

A couple attending an art exhibition at the National Gallery in DC was staring at a portrait that had them completely confused. The painting depicted three very black and totally naked men sitting on a park bench. Two of the figures had black weenies, but the one in the middle had a pink weenie.

The curator of the gallery realized that they were having trouble interpreting the painting and offered his assessment. He went on for nearly half an hour explaining how it depicted the sexual emasculation of African-Americans in a predominately white, patriarchal society. 'In fact,' he pointed out,
'some serious critics believe that the pink weenie also reflects the cultural and sociological oppression experienced by gay men in contemporary society.'

After the curator left, a young man in a Kentucky T-shirt approached the couple and said, 'Would you like to know what the painting is really about?'

'Now why would you claim to be more of an expert than the curator of the gallery?' asked the couple.

'Because I'm the guy who painted it,' he replied. 'In fact, there are no African-Americans depicted at all. They're just three Kentucky coal miners, and the guy in the middle went home for lunch.''

The Blind Bunny

One morning a blind bunny was hopping down the bunny trail and tripped over a large snake and fell, kerplop right on his twitchy little nose.

'Oh please excuse me,' said the bunny. 'I didn't mean to trip over you, but I'm blind and can't see.'

That's perfectly all right,' replied the snake.
'To be sure, it was my fault. I didn't mean to trip you, but I'm blind too, and I didn't see you coming. By the way, what kind of animal are you?'

'Well, I really don't know,' said the bunny. 'I'm blind, and I've never seen myself. Maybe you could examine me and find out.'

So the snake felt the bunny all over, and he said, 'Well, you're soft, and cuddly, and you have long silky ears, and a little fluffy tail and a dear twitchy little nose. You must be a bunny rabbit!'

The bunny said, 'I can't thank you enough. But by the way, what kind of animal are you?'

The snake replied that he didn't know either, and the bunny agreed to examine him, and when the bunny was finished, the snake asked, 'Well, what kind of an animal am I?'

The bunny had felt the snake all over, and he replied, 'You're cold, you're slippery, and you haven't got any balls...You must be a POLITICIAN'

A blonde decides to try horseback riding, even though she has had no lessons, nor prior experience. She mounts the horse unassisted, and the horse immediately springs into motion. It gallops along at a steady and rhythmic pace, but the blonde begins to slide from the saddle.

In terror, she grabs for the horse's mane, but cannot seem to get a firm grip. She tries to throw her arms around the horse's neck, but she slides down the horse's side anyway. The horse gallops along, seemingly impervious to its slipping rider.

Finally, giving up her frail grip, the blonde attempts to leap away from the horse and throw herself to safety. Unfortunately, her foot has become entangled in the stirrup; she is now at the mercy of the horse's pounding hooves as her head is struck against the ground over and over.

As her head is battered against the ground, she is mere moments away from unconsciousness when to her great fortune.... Frank, the Walmart greeter, sees her dilemma and unplugs the horse.

And you thought all they did was say Hello.Rider

A post like this is "keyclown flypaper". It attracts keyclowns and only keyclowns. We keep you all penned up in rec.radio groups all together so we can keep an eye on you. It is sort of like Al Quaeda and Iraq, you know; "we fight them there so we don't have to fight them here".

I did almost the same thing at Milwaukee. I got inside a pickle barrel that had holes all around it. Hams would walk up, toss a quarter into the top, and stick their weiners thru one of the holes. It was great fun!

IF YOU ARE GRANTED THE EXTREME HONOR OF BEING INVITED TO SPEAK INTO THE MICROPHONE, PLEASE OBSERVE THE FOLLOWING RULES:

Speak in a southern accent, like an ignorant hillbilly, a drunk, or a

Use profanity as much as possible.

Loudly accuse people of "being on your channel" and threaten to "come kick their ass".

Repeat one or more of these phrases: DONCHA KNOW, RIGHT BACK ATCHA, WORLDWIDE, MERCY ME, TAN FER THAR, HALLOO AUDIOOO.

DO NOT TOUCH ANYTHING, TURN ANY KNOBS, SIT ON EQUIPMENT, ETC. I HAVE LOST MANY THOUSANDS OF BRAIN CELLS BY RF AND ELECTROCUTION IN THE PAST FEW WEEKS.

Recall -- Firm Press Release
FDA posts press releases and other notices of recalls and market withdrawals from the firms involved as a service to consumers, the media, and other interested parties. FDA does not endorse either the product or the company.

Roxane Laboratories, Inc. Initiates a Nationwide Voluntary Recall of Two Manufacturing Lots of Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension in the US and Puerto Rico
Contact:
Jason Kurtz
440-201-3668

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE -- Columbus, Ohio -- July 14, 2008 -- Roxane Laboratories, Inc. announced today that it is conducting a nationwide voluntary recall of two manufacturing lots of Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension, USP, 15 g/60 mL Unit dose bottles (NDC 0054-0165-51; Lot 856396A Exp April 2010, and Lot 856693A Exp May 2010). Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension is used to treat hyperkalemia (an elevated blood level of the electrolyte potassium).

Roxane Laboratories' number one priority is for the safety of patients who use our products. A sample from product lot 856396A tested positive for a strain of yeast, which could potentially affect immunocompromised patients. Roxane Laboratories believes that this may be attributed to yeast contamination in one lot of high-density polyethylene bottles received from a supplier. There are various manifestations of yeast infections. The risk of developing a yeast infection depends on how immunocompromised the patient is. Additionally, there are a range of symptoms in a yeast infection from thrush, skin rash, and blood infections (sepsis). If patients develop an infection they should consult their physician. Due to the potential risks that could occur in immunocompromised patients, Roxane Laboratories is voluntarily recalling lot 856396A. Although there have been no testing failures associated with lot 856693A, this additional lot is also being included in the recall as a precautionary measure because the same lot of bottles was used in both finished product lots. All other product parameters were within specification and product efficacy is not impacted. There have been no complaints or adverse events reported for the affected lots. This recall is limited to the two lot numbers listed. No other Roxane Laboratories, Inc. products or lots are impacted by this recall.

Information has been sent to Pharmacists alerting them of the details pertaining to this recall. As described in these recall communications, pharmacists who may have dispensed Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension, USP, 15 g/60 mL Unit dose bottles from Lots 856396A and 856693A are instructed to contact those patients to return the affected product to the pharmacist.

Pharmacists and wholesalers that have any Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension, USP, 15 g/60 mL Unit dose bottles from Lot 856396A or Lot 856693A have been instructed to discontinue distribution and use of these lots immediately and contact Capital Returns at 888.839.7837 for any questions regarding the recall returns. Requests for additional information should be referred to Roxane Laboratories Technical Product Information at 800.962.8364.

Advice For Patients Taking Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension USP, 15 g/60 Ml Unit Dose Bottles

If your pharmacist has notified you that you may have received a bottle from one of the lots listed in this recall, please return your Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension, USP, 15 g/60 mL Unit dose bottles to your pharmacist.

If you have NOT been notified by your pharmacist, please check your product to determine if it is from either of the two affected lots: Sodium Polystyrene Sulfonate Suspension, USP, 15 g/60 mL Unit dose bottles from Lot 856396A Exp April 2010, or Lot 856693A Exp May 2010. If the product has either of these two lot numbers on the bottle, please contact your pharmacist for further instructions. This recall has been limited to these two specific lots.

Roxane Laboratories is working with the US FDA on this voluntary recall. The products discussed in this press release are available by prescription only, and no injuries have been reported in relation to this issue.

Barack Obama, the lead Presidential Democratic Party candidate, is for banning all guns in America . He is considered by those who have dealt with him as a bit more than just a little self-righteous.

At a recent rural elementary school assembly in East Texas, he asked the audience for total quiet. Then, in the silence, he started to slowly clap his hands once every few seconds, holding the audience in total silence.

Then he said into the microphone, 'Children, every time I clap my hands together, a child in America dies from gun violence.'

Then, little Bobby Earl, with a proud East Texas drawl, pierced the quiet and said: ''Well, stupid, stop clapping!'

Todd is pissed off mad because google took off his blog that had those SICKENING pics of anime pedophile stuff from Japan. It may be considered to be OK in Japan to show a cartoon picture of a 30 year old man sticking his errect penis squirting semen into the vagina of a 9 year old girl, but here in the USA that kind of crap is HIGHLY ILLEGAL and the people who support and enjoy such garbage and call the same 'art" or 'free expression' usually end up dead then cut into 3 or 4 pieces and their body parts placed into an industrial landfill in 55 gallon drums of wastewater.

2536. Fight Back: Report Mark's spews to Google

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy

From: DeLorean <delorean@nim.bstrs>
Message-ID: <fight.back.daily.pls@nim.bstrs>
Source record: 220302

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

Choose almost any thread, and then pick out one of Mark's "zzz..." or other messages. You should see something similar to what is pictured at the link below:

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

(6) “computer” has the meaning given that term in section 1030 of this title;
(7) “custody or control” includes temporary supervision over or responsibility for a minor whether legally or illegally obtained;
(8) “child pornography” means any visual depiction, including any photograph, film, video, picture, or computer or computer-generated image or picture, whether made or produced by electronic, mechanical, or other means, of sexually explicit conduct, where—

(A) the production of such visual depiction involves the use of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct;
(B) such visual depiction is a digital image, computer image, or computer-generated image that is, or is indistinguishable from, that of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct; or
(C) such visual depiction has been created, adapted, or modified to appear that an identifiable minor is engaging in sexually explicit conduct.
(9) “identifiable minor”—
(A) means a person—
(i)
(I) who was a minor at the time the visual depiction was created, adapted, or modified; or
(II) whose image as a minor was used in creating, adapting, or modifying the visual depiction; and
(ii) who is recognizable as an actual person by the person’s face, likeness, or other distinguishing characteristic, such as a unique birthmark or other recognizable feature; and
(B) shall not be construed to require proof of the actual identity of the identifiable minor.
(10) “graphic”, when used with respect to a depiction of sexually explicit conduct, means that a viewer can observe any part of the genitals or pubic area of any depicted person or animal during any part of the time that the sexually explicit conduct is being depicted; and
(11) the term “indistinguishable” used with respect to a depiction, means virtually indistinguishable, in that the depiction is such that an ordinary person viewing the depiction would conclude that the depiction is of an actual minor engaged in sexually explicit conduct. This definition does not apply to depictions that are drawings, cartoons, sculptures, or paintings depicting minors or adults.

professional community says that anyone who enjoys photos or other artwork that depicts a child or children in sexually oriented acts suffers from pedophillia. Now shut the fuck up you sick bastard.

I'm a guy from Toledo who enjoys showing a submissive woman a good time in every way. I have so many interests that there probably is some broad common ground between myself and about anyone. I love to talk about D/s and BDSM issues and interests, and have been generally regarded as a funny guy to hang out with who has a good head on his shoulders. Send me a message for anything else you'd like to know!

2615. Female Slave Required

I require a young, relocatable, physically fit, female slave seeking a Master to own her and to take control of her entire existence. She must be prepared to dedicate her life to 24/7 service. Master WILL take full ownership in the most literal sense of the word -- total immersion in a life of strict discipline, servitude, enslavement, and sexual decadence, including totally bisexual orgies and bukkake sessions. Slave must know her place and be able to fulfill any role that pleases Him -- personal assistant (in my professional career), chauffeur, chef, caregiver (I'm physically disabled), housekeeper, handmaiden, paramour and companion.

Slave should be seeking the contentment found in the full surrender of her entire life -- when she ceases to exist as a free woman and becomes the fully owned and controlled property of her Master, with full knowledge that her Master will use her for whatever is necessary to serve, further, pleasure and amuse Him.

The law does not define pedophillia, the health professionals do, nitwit. It is obviously that Toadie sets home and gets all sexed up at the thought of sex and kids, and that makes him qualify for a diagnosis of pedophila.

I don't need to complain to anyone. Just the fact that I make you whine like a little bitch is enough. Just like Fatty, we are slowly destroying you in court of public opinion. The more you post, the more the information is out there that you are a sick kook who gets all sexed up at cartoons of children getting raped, molested, and mutilated. You are sicker than Fatty. We give you kooks enough rope and you prove that you will hang yourselves. Ask Fatty, we have played him a few times which resulted in him being banned from two web sites, both of which I predicted. BTW how are your sicko blogs doing? Not so good the last time I checked. LOL

Chapter VII

WHAT HAVE THE JEWS CONTRIBUTED TO AMERICAN CULTURE?

The Jews have made a habit of saying, When someone goes to the Bible for criticism of Jewish things, that the Devil is fond of quoting from the Scriptures. I am afraid that, before they are through reading this book, it is not at all unlikely that they will accuse the Devil of having written them.

I call your attention to verses ten and eleven of the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy: "And it shall be when the Lord thy God shall bring thee into the land which He swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob, to give thee - (there will be) great and goodly cities which thou didst not build, and houses full of good things which thou didst not fill, and cisterns hewn out, which thou didst not hew, vineyards and olive trees, which thou didst not plant, and thou shalt eat and be satisfied."

The Lord might have added, in the same spirit: "And there shall be paintings and statues for you to appraise, breathe profoundly significant words over, and sell at a goodly price, which thou hast not conceived in thine own heart; poems to recite and put into eloquent anthologies which thou hast not written or encouraged; operas (containing prima donnas ready for seduction) which thou wilt parade pompously through the world's great cities, but which thou hast not taken the trouble to measure out; and the great businesses to inflate which were first conceived in the brains of the goyim, wrought into shape by the sinews of the goyim, but the profits of which shall legitimately be yours. All these and much more shall be thine for the adopting and adapting, that they may shine as a cultural light over thy dark heads, to remain a glory to Israel forever."

The author of Deuteronomy had a real understanding of the profound indolence of the Jewish national attitude towards the real work of the world. He brings it into light in more places than the passage I have singled out for quoting. He says nothing about the Jewish attitude towards the arts, for the very excellent reason that the Jewish arts then, as now, were quite non-existent. I have never paid much attention to the national Jewish reluctance to join in the manual labor of the world, although it has always seemed to me a very grave flaw in our character. But I have been annoyed by our attitude towards the arts, and once, in my book Now and Forever I tried to explain it away in the following manner:

"Zangwill: You don't seriously mean that you look upon the making of statues and paintings as harmful?

"Roth: Only the other day I was explaining this to one of your Georgian poets who was sharing tea with me in a dark corner of the Savoy dining-room. 'How is it,' he asked me, nodding a pig's head, 'that you Jews have contributed nothing to the plastic arts?' I took up the delicate saucer from under my cup and rapped it gently against his bald pate. He looked grieved but I hastened to explain myself. 'If you knew,' I said to him, 'that every time you made such a saucer it would split over your head, would you be anxious to continue producing them?'

"But the making of statues and paintings is harmful to us in yet another way. To survive, we Jews must love nothing better than ourselves. This is how the rabbis considered the matter. Once Jews take to the making of images, they would create in shadow and in stone, figures so much more beautiful, and so much more appealing than the figures in their own flesh and blood, that, being a people with a sense of justice, they would learn to prize them more. The rabbis feared that the presence within our sight of overwhelmingly beautiful figures sprung out of our foreheads, would degrade for us the people passing before us in the common robes of humanity." [22]

But no. Jews are not satisfied with understanding their barrenness. On the contrary, they must make it appear that the barrenness is an illusion. The desert is not a desert if it is a Jewish desert, but an orchard chocked with fruit trees. It is not necessary to even respond to the spirit of creation to prove yourself of a creative nature - if you happen to be a Jew. A pose is all the equipment you need. And so it has become an old Jewish habit to assume that the Jew has culturally enriched every country he has favored with his presence and his patronage. This lofty assumption, especially in the field of culture, comes instinctively to a people whose interest goes out to all things the pursuit of which involves the expenditure of a minimum of energy.

Many articles and books have already been written on the subject of how much the Jews have enriched America culturally. Needless to add, Jews authored them. And while it is undoubtedly true that Jews have given themselves over infinitely to the vain-show and inglorious barter which everywhere accompany the development of the arts and the sciences, I cannot find anything of value that they have themselves created in their two hundred and fifty years residence on the American continent.

This is true in science as well as in arts. In science, it is usual for the American Jew to invoke the names of Jacques Loeb in biology and Charles Steinmetz in electricity. But American Jewry's claim to these laurels is very vague. Both Loeb and Steinmetz were born in Germany. They grew up in Germany and developed their insights in German universities and laboratories. Having attained noticeable stature in their own countries, they were invited, as was Albert Einstein later, to make their homes in America. The invitations, even, came not from Jews but from non-Jewish organizations interested in scientific research and in whatever values these men could bring to the promotion of certain vast commercial enterprises. It had nothing to do with culture in the first place. And, in the second place, if it were a matter of culture, the Jews would certainly have had nothing to do with it. A cultural contact between these two scientists and American Jewry would have been unthinkable and abhorrent to the scientists. At no time while Loeb and Steinmetz lived in America did their lives even faintly touch the life of the Jewish community. If being in America meant anything to Jacques Loeb, it certainly did not crop up in his work which was a magnificent attempt to prove that animal (including human) life is as mechanical as any machine which we ourselves put together out of the raw and crumby materials of a disordered nature. As for Steinmetz, no man of his time worked harder than he to split up the poor electron which has neither race nor sex. It is difficult to imagine even his corpse at a Zionist rally.

In painting, sculpture and music the Jews conjure up a swarm of names. In painting as in sculpture there is not a name I would trouble to remember or repeat. In music it has become good form to praise the work of George Gershwin. But you have only to sound it next to the name of Edward McDowell to realize its hollowness.

In poetry, what Jewish names can we offer to place next to the names of Edgar Allen Poe, Walt Whitman, Robert Frost or Edwin Arlington Robinson?

The closest Jewish approach to poetry in America was in the work of a woman, Ada Isaacs Menken, a descendant of French Huguenauts in New Orleans, who for two years before the appearance of Leaves of Grass, published her Infelcia, in the same style, poetry both trenchant and lovely. She married a Jew in Baltimore, and her marriage was short-lived; owing to the untimely death of her husband. But she had become so strangely enamored of Jewish ideas that she continued to regard herself, for the rest of her life, as a guardian of the Jewish People. She began, after her husband's death, to publish a weekly periodical devoted to Jewish news and the discussion of Jewish problems, but found Baltimore too tedious, and moved her operations to Europe and England. In England she became the center of attraction for English writers and European writers who came to England to visit. [23] When all Jewry was excoriating Charles Dickens for the character of Fagin in Oliver Twist, it was she who extracted from him the promise that he would remunerate the Jews for the damage done them by creating, in another novel, the character of a good Jew. [24] But it should also be noticed that, after her husband, she never again made friends with Jews. She married again three times. Once she descended to the level of taking a prize fighter for a husband. But never another Jew.

Emma Lazarus repeated in English some of the plaintive melodies of Heine. But in her own right she was not a poet worthy of remembrance. The names of James Oppenheim, Alter Brody, Donald Evans and Joseph Auslander are repeatedly suggested. But they only testify to the Jew's eternal reaching out for honors which are beyond his reach. James Oppenheim's verses reveal the futility of an American Jew trying to climb to the prophetic heights of Issaiah on the ladder of Walt Whitman. Brody's free verse sketches of the Jewish east side have a thin, shrill lyricism; they no more make poetry than the sketches of Martha Wolffenstein which were written in unpretentious (and therefore more serviceable) prose. Donald Evans did achieve a measure of poetry. But his work, alas, broke down, prematurely, with his brief life.

He even achieve an imitator in the untidy verses of Maxwell Bodenheim. But no one will be grateful to him for that. So much for what the Jews have contributed to American poetry.

In the production of prose American Jewry is, if possible, even poorer. I understand that Robert Nathan who composed the novel Jonah is a Jew. I know that the author of Dark Mother, Waldo Frank, is a Jew. Pearl Buck, after spending twenty years as a Christian missionary to the heathen Chinee, confessed blushingly to being a Galician Jewess. But Nathan's is very insubstantial irony. Frank has begun splendidly some of the worse novels published within the last twenty years. And Pearl Buck is just readable enough to make an amazing exhibition of a cumbersome sentimental machinery. There is, of course, some merit in every one of these writers, I grant you. But can you make a national feast of such crumbs?

I am here reminded forcibly of a very portentous omission. If I did not mention him at all, as I feel I should not, people might conclude that I had either forgotten him or that it would not save my theme to measure his value. I mean, of course, Ludwig Lewisohn, the author of Upstream, The Case of Mr. Crump, and a dozen other books with which he has harassed the press within the last two decades. He has attained no mean measure of popularity as a writer of fiction, and even some stature in the critical esteem of the nations as an artist. Years ago, I recollect, I picked up a book of pleasing translations By Mr. Lewisohn from modern French poets. I have never been pleased by anything from his pen since. As a writer, he seems to me gross, vulgar and insincere. When Upstream appeared, American Jewry made such an issue of it, that nearly fifty thousand copies of it were sold before it was generally realized that it was almost impossible to read the book. The immense vogue which Upstream enjoyed, described two tragic spectacles: a popular book that nobody could read, and a newly discovered writer who had gone lost before you could take a good look at him. Israel which followed it was a hodge-podge of Jewish ideas by a Jew only recently converted to Judaism. The Island Within revealed hitherto unsuspected narrative powers. If Mr. Lewisohn practiced long enough, you feel he might qualify as a contributor the Saturday Evening Post. The Case of Mr. Crump was still easy reading. But it saddened hope for Mr. Lewisohn's future as a popular writer. It was now apparent that Mr. Lewisohn too his practice too seriously. There is scant comfort for American Jewry in the prose of Ludwig Lewisohn.

We have, however, made one contribution to the scene of letters in the United States which it would be vain for us to try to pass over. It has made so deep an impression on the life of the continent that it would be difficult to equal in the literary annals of any other country. It is a contribution no one will dispute with the Jews, because it is such an unpleasant one. I mean the gossip-column as invented by Walter Winchell and developed by Louis Sobol, George Skolsky and a dozen other Jewish journalists throughout the United States.

The Winchell idea was a very simple one. People want news, and the majority of the people have a stomach only for news with a certain amount of spice in

it. But there is a limit to the amount of spice to be found in regular news. Even a newspaper like The Graphic (in which Mr. Winchell was permitted to develop his new Journalistic formula) could not stretch interest in the shabbier tragedies of a day beyond a certain point. But Mr. Winchell had made a very interesting discovery. There was a borderline between vital people and the things they would do or might do that provided a much richer field of contemplation for the reader who wanted more spice than even the spiciest news could offer. To exploit this rich, virgin soil was Mr. Winchell's happy inspiration.

I do not know whether Mr. Winchell approached any other newspaper publishers with this idea. The records have it that he came to Bernard Macfadden, just as Macfadden had announced his intention of starting an afternoon daily tabloid for New York City. There is certainly no doubt that Mr. Winchell found a natural home in the Graphic which was reputed to enjoy a total of nine million dollars worth of libel suits against it when it discontinued publication. At any rate, Mr. Macfadden was the only other Jewish newspaper publisher in New York, and it was inconceivable that Mr. Ochs who professes interest only in "news fit to print" would have given him a hearing. The Winchell-Macfadden combination was, in the language of Broadway, "a perfect natural."

"I am offering you," explained Winchell, "a new departure in Journalism, maybe in Literature. Something to give a life to your newspaper that will not be enjoyed by any of the papers competing with you. I will explain to you, by example. Here is a morning paper. Do you see this paragraph announcing a birth in the Gould family? Pretty flat, don't you think? But suppose you had printed a week ago that one of the Goulds anticipated a blessed event? Wouldn't that have been much more exciting? Here is an item about a divorce in one of New York's most famous theatrical families. They'll never let the details ooze out, probably too slimy. So of what interest is the divorce? But what excitement there would have been if a month ago I had printed in my column a hint that the home-fires in a certain theatrical household were beginning to burn low! Get me?

"Where will I get my information? Simple enough. Such stuff drifts in by the carload through the mail and the telephone into every newspaper office. As newspapers are constituted today they cannot use nine tenths of this information. In the first place, it is never authentic enough. In the second place, there is always danger of a libel suit. What is needed to bring this mass of really exciting news into the newspapers? A new language. English, yes. But an English with more than one meaning. An English with words of possible three or four different kinds of meanings. An insinuating, clear-hinting, spicy language. And it wont matter whether your information is correct or not. You can practically manufacture your own sensations."

This is what Mr. Winchell proposed to make of a column, the medium which once served Eugene Field and still serves Heywood Broun. What he has done, and how successfully he has done it, are matters of record. His manner and methods were very swiftly aped - by other Jews. Yes, there are a few gentiles who do gossip-columns, but they are conspicuously unsuccessful. The success of the gossip-columnist depends on his ability to shamelessly stick his nose into the most private affairs of people of importance, and on the reckless courage to give publicity to what he learns, regardless of how devastating its effects may be in the lives of the people reflected on. The work of some of the columnists is occasionally covered with a fine film of blackmail. But that is, after all, within the national tradition.

What then? We have certainly partaken of the lustre of the intellectual life of America. But have we added any rays or radiance to its glitter and charm? It would seem not. But that has not prevented us in fulfillment of all the prophecies, from making a good business of the light we found. In the matter of poetry, for instance. Not in all their combined lives have Poe, Whitman and Frost earned what a well known Jewish salesman of Jewelry earns every year by gathering together their best work, as well as the best works of dozens of other American poets, into anthologies, where they may shine next to "poems" of his own. The same thing happens in painting, in sculpture, and in music. The Jew comes into the concert hall as if the very life of music depended on him. As a matter of fact he is only there to make a collection.

Do you remember, Herbert, one of those innumerable discussions held one night in my West Eighth Street bookshop on what was wrong with the American novel? Let me recall it to you. John Gould Fletcher, in New York on one of his visits from England, had walked in on us accidentally. Karl Wisehart was there too: at that time he was toying with at least three potential novels of Negro life in the south. Minna Loy (of the white brow, long gold earrings, and rambling free verse poems in The Little Review) was smoking comfortably and studying the sounds of our voices. I believe we had also with us that Jewish writer of gypsy stories whose name it is always good taste not to remember.

I don't know how it happened, but the talk had fallen on poor Washington Irving, and someone said what a pity it was that he took such pains with a landscape to which he seemed to have not the faintest human attachment. Fletcher observed, further, that Herman Melville's persistent preoccupation with foreign scenes made it appear that he was, during his whole life in full flight from American things. Someone else - and that might have been you - spoke briefly of the cheerless inventions of James Branch Cabell. I, it must have been who added that Theodore Dreiser's ox-like nibblings at American life suggested the enthusiasm of a man feeding on a diet of sand. And I think it was Karl who pronounced the inevitable conclusion which we all accepted without further argument. American literature suffered because of the absence in America of a real love for the American scene.

"What else is there to writing?" cried Karl. "What is the whole magic of a Tolstoy, a Flaubert, a Dickens, or a Hawthorne? Every page of Tolstoy reflects as in a mirror Tolstoy's love of the Russian land and everything that flowers and crawls on it. The prose of Flaubert is a reproduction, in the most exquisite miniature, of the flora and fauna of France. So anxious was Flaubert to give his writing the natural scenes of the soil of France, that he winnowed out of it even the shadow of an intellectual life. Dickens, like Fielding before him, had only the most perfunctory interest in natural landscape, but there was not a department of human life on the British Isles that was safe from his prying and tender eyes. And had not New England been morally as well as physically frozen, Hawthorne might have been easier to take to one's heart. Since Hawthorne, for all American writers have cared about, we might as well have given our country back to the Indians."

Karl exaggerated, of course, as people usually do in such discussions. But in the main I think he was correct that night. The arts spring forth only out of the love of man for the life in which he is rooted, from his attachment to that part of the earth which he has made his home. It is a man's performance of the double function of taking root and making a real marriage with his country which constitutes culture and civilization. The offspring of such a marriage are good books, paintings and statues - jewels which the earth yields up only to the most persistent and energetic of her wooers.

What a sorry spectacle the Jew makes on this continent which he pretends to have enriched! Not only does he fail to contribute any glamour to the scene. He does not even contribute man-power. He does not dig wells, plough fields, forge skyscrapers, lay bricks, cut out trenches, spin wheels, bake dough, fell trees, pack tin cans, sweep streets, heave coal, fire furnaces, weave cloth, dig subways, raise ramparts, wall floods, rivet bridges, hinge gates, or fight fires. Even at a time like this, when more man-power is offered this country than it can; alas, utilize, it cannot be disputed that quite as important as the vision of an artist who swings a nation from goal to goal, is the man-power with which the vision is reached and passed on the way to the next. Towards the man-power of America Jewry contributes only that which it catches in its own sweatshops, as in so many rat-traps - set by itself. It seems to be part of the Jew's unwritten code that he should never work. Unless something happens to change his vision, I venture to add that he never will, either.

[22] Since writing these lines I have realized the unsoundness of the thought which underlies them. At no time have the goyim held against us the few honest contributions which Jews have made to the arts in Europe. Russia has never thrown at the heads of Jews any of the statues of Antokolsky. Nor has any Englishman tried to stop a Jew's mouth with one of the drawings of Jacob Epstein.

[23] Swinburne wrote his lustful Dolores to her and posed with her in a photograph which the British Museum will let you look at if you can show the librarian a doctor's certificate.

[24] Dickens kept his word. The "character" he eventually produced was good alright, but outside of his name he had no Jewish qualities by which he might be recognized as a Jew.

Actually YOUR WRONG read title 18 of the USC it defines what is and isn't child porn. YOU can read right???

But seriously, if you hell bent on stopping me post the anime on sites, why aren't you attacking the other anime sites that have the same material?? You and your little friends have yet to tell me why?? BTW those who are tuning in, this ASSHOLE is basically saying that Japanese Anime is Child Porn and people who look at certain types of anime is PEDOPHILLIA...yet, I transgress, the Anime community probably doesn't have the BALLS to give their say in this matter.

Nobody is talking about whether what you apparently enjoy is or is not porn under the laws of the U.S. What I am talking about is animated images of children in sexual exploits and the result that such images apparently have on your psychie (arousal). The fact that you seem to enjoy such images whether real or not, speaks to the point that you enjoy seeing children being sexually traumatize, raped, and tortured.
A very sick perversion.

Because the other Anmie sites do not correlate Amateur radio with Anmie like you do.

> BTW those who are tuning in, this ASSHOLE is basically saying that

I have never identified it as either porn or not porn, that is not the issue. Nor does whether some country such as Japan accepts this vileness is not at issue either.

But I do agree that "people who look at certain types of anime is PEDOPHILLIA"

The individuals who like to look at images of children particpating in sex, and are getting aroused by such, are in my opinion, suffering from a form of pedophillia.

Am I saying that you or others are child molesters, No. Am I saying that you have raped or physically done anything to kids, No. But I am saying that if you enjoy looking at children, whether real or not, engaging in sex acts or other brutaliities, do have a severe mental disorder.

Not true, there is no evidence that those images "arouse" people nor is any evidence that those pictures turn people into child molesters or pedophilia, as a matter fact the Supreme Court stated that Child molesters and Pedophilia, would rather have the real stuff and not the fake stuff. For if the need of the fake was so great by Child molesters or pedophilia, then the market for the real stuff would dry up. The Justice Department was asked by the Supreme Court to prove the linkage between "virtual Child Porn" (which covers anime) and the abuse of real children, the Justice Department could not show ANY linkage. Like I said many times before if such linkage to real child abuse existed (which it doesn't) then all the anime sites would be shut down, EA GAMES would be able to sale SIMS or SIMS 2 or even SIMS 3 (which is not out YET) So your innuendo's are based on no real facts, and until you can come up with real facts...well there's nothing more to say.

So I like Anime and I like Amateur radio, you show where it states I can NOT like both, AND show me where it states I can NOT talk about both on my personal website.

No but what DON'T see and fail to grasp, is that ANIME is not just in JAPAN, you can go to anime or video stores here in the United States and buy movies that would fall under the catagory of Lolicon. Japanese Anime is NOT just in Japan, it a MULTI-BILLION industry with MILLION and MILLIONS of fans who also look and collect that type of material and vast majority of those fans are HERE in the United States

I never LOOK at real children, Well actually I did pull out a photo of me one time as a toddler taking a bath (taken in 1969) , But I don't look at real Child porn and you have yet prove it, simply because YOU CAN'T. I am a memeber of a number of Japanese Anime websites including Hongfire, Not4chan, HentaiHQ (well I was member) Little Angel Hentai BBS, Hentai BBS and a few otehr places, all have Lolicon art, NONE has real child porn. again show me the evidence that I download real child porn...you don't have any, BECAUSE I DON"T DOWNLOAD OR LOOK AT REAL CHILD PORN.

I think there is certain anime which should be looked at by the government under child pornography laws.

The anime community at large doesn't really have the balls or the willingness to give their say or really do much about anything that isn't to their own benefit. Which see the piracy stuff going on...

I definitely believe there is some anime that needs to be kept off the market as child porn, yes. I think that a lot of authorities have conveniently looked the other way on a lot of things going on in the anime industry (probably largely because of the money that some of the larger convention events bring into communities, for one part).

The law doesn't have to define "pedophilia", per se -- now, as we all know, there's a significant discussion oas to what pornography is -- but one of the few crimes that most people take very seriously is child porn.

If you truly believe he qualifies under the law and have evidence to present to that effect, do not hesitate to contact your local police department or your local FBI office. If you believe the entire anime industry to be harborers of child porn, then you might want to be a bit more concerted of evidentiary work before so contacting.

> > > > so take your relihous vendetta elsewhere

It's not a religious dilemma. But the facts are that if you believe this person to be engaging in child porn, then call the cops or shut up.

As I said in the other post, there is some anime which darn well should be taken off the market by the authorities. In fact, I'm somewhat surprised that there hasn't been more scrutiny of what is shown at anime events by the local cops.

Again, if you've got actual evidence on this guy, stop flaming him on USENET, find out where his ISP is or where he lives, and contact his local law enforcement.

> > But seriously, if you hell bent on stopping me post the anime on

Now, that IS a good question. If he's guilty, then all the sites which have the same material are similarly guilty and should be similarly investigated -- I cannot think that there isn't some truth to the fact that that is one of the reasons that USENET is being cut off (though I think some of it has to do with the violent nature of some political speech on USENET) on some ISPs.

> Because the other Anmie sites do not correlate Amateur radio with > Anmie like you do.

So you're specifically targetting him in a Bernie Ward-like situation?

Again, if you're targetting him to get him off of r.r.a.p and r.r.a.m., find out where he lives and contact his local law enforcement -- otherwise, you'll be going round and round on this for years and should just STFU.

Ummm, hang on here -- now this was just brought over to r.a.a.m., so I'm probably not up to speed with this flamewar. But if you're going to view this as "vileness", then it would seem that you have identified certain portions of the genre as child porn. That would seem to make sense by your characterization.

> But I do agree that "people who look at certain types of

I think you mean they'd be pedophiliacs. The content itself would be considered pedophilia.

Yes. But here's the thing: If you have evidence to that effect, then you need to contact his local law enforcement and get him locked up. Period.

And are engaging in severe illegal acts by so doing.

Even if they watch it themselves -- a bone of much contention in the anime community. There's at least one anime recently mentioned on r.a.a.m. which almost certainly would qualify as some form of child exploitation under some countries' laws.

Maybe he believes that his presence on am. radio and his "perversion" (I'm not going to say it is or isn't -- I haven't been in this flamewar long and don't know which anime he watches that you would consider child porn.) are coming from the same free speech principles.

Mike (He'd be wrong under United States law. Child porn has clearly and unequivocably declared NOT free speech.)

Thank you!!!

and you are right, these individuals need to either put up or shut up about me being into child porn. I have NEVER looked at REAL child porn, I'm into anime and been into anime a LOOOOONNNGG time (since the early 70's) BTW the FBI did visit my site when it was up and running, and according to them....IT'S LEGAL! According to them, they have no desire going after anime fans, the ones they want to go after are the ones that have the real stuff. the problem is jackass like him, who really don't care what the law says, So instead of going to police to complain, he and his friends complain to my ISP or to google/blogspot claiming the material is child porn and they shut my site down or shut me off, because my ISP doesn't know what the LAW is and apparently neither does Google. So they will continue to attack me on every website they can (not just on the USENET) claiming I into child porn and a sick monster, yet don't have the Balls to prove it. BTW these are also the same type of people who think renissance paintings with naked children in them is Kiddy Porn.

again thank you!

I think you will agree however that nothing quite compares to being tied down to the floor over a water drain while three Brazillian Shemales unload a gallon of warm piss each all over your naked body.
Of course these is also Betty Bazooms the 400 pound black girl and her amazing 23" long and 3" diameter purple jelly day glow strap-on sex

Since late last year, rumors have been circulating that a major network or cable station was going to do a special on tower erectors.

NBC confirmed it today, and their "Tower Dogs" special will air on July 21 at 10 P.M/ET.

Sometimes we miss the obvious ones...yeah, 10-10 is the obvious one

That "sparky's" radio is probably overkill for a beacon. My plan years back was a hy-gain9 CB board. Its synthesizer, as I recall, would allow it to go into 10 meters (VERY hazy memory)

3 watts, etc, and then a simple ID'er I was going to make from a 68705P3 microcontroller, today probably use a PIC. In fact I seem to remember a PIC based beacon controller, and maybe it was in QST..?? Man, I wish my memory was what it was 30 years back.

>> The Winchell idea was a very simple one. People want news, and the

>> I do not know whether Mr. Winchell approached any other newspaper >> that Mr. Ochs who professes interest only in "news fit to print" would >> have given him a hearing. The Winchell-Macfadden combination was, in the >> language of Broadway, "a perfect natural."

>> "I am offering you," explained Winchell, "a new departure in Journalism, >> will >> not be enjoyed by any of the papers competing with you. I will explain >> to you, by example. Here is a morning paper. Do you see this paragraph >> certain theatrical household were beginning to burn low! Get me?

>> "Where will I get my information? Simple enough. Such stuff drifts in >> the carload through the mail and the telephone into every newspaper >> office. As newspapers are constituted today they cannot use nine tenths >> of >> this information. In the first place, it is never authentic enough. In >> English with words of possible three or four different kinds of meanings.

>> An insinuating, clear-hinting, spicy language. And it wont matter >> whether >> your information is correct or not. You can practically manufacture your >> own sensations."
>> This is what Mr. Winchell proposed to make of a column, the medium which >> once served Eugene Field and still serves Heywood Broun. What he has >> done, and how successfully he has done it, are matters of record. His >> manner and methods were very swiftly aped - by other Jews. Yes, there >> learns, regardless of how devastating its effects may be in the lives of >> the people reflected on. The work of some of the columnists is >> occasionally covered with a fine film of blackmail. But that is, after >> all, within the national tradition.

>> What then? We have certainly partaken of the lustre of the intellectual >> life of America. But have we added any rays or radiance to its glitter >> and charm? It would seem not. But that has not prevented us in >> fulfillment of all the prophecies, from making a good business of the

>> I don't know how it happened, but the talk had fallen on poor Washington >> Irving, and someone said what a pity it was that he took such pains with >> a >> landscape to which he seemed to have not the faintest human attachment.

Welcome to ALT.USENET.KOOKS ! This is a moderated newsgroup for amateur radio operators and other people having an interest in
Amateur Radio Service, as defined by national regulations and international treaties. Following are the posting guidelines for this newsgroup.

This message includes the following sections:

1. Topics and posting policies from the ALT.USENET.KOOKS Charter
2. Additional posting guidelines
2.1 Netiquette guidelines
2.2 Posting form requirements
2.3 Guidelines on signature (.sig) files
2.4 Guidelines on excessive quoting
2.5 Guidelines on pointers to outside sources
2.6 Guidelines regarding questioning someone's suitability to hold an amateur radio license
2.7 Guidelines regarding name-calling
2.8 Guidelines regarding civility
2.9 Other unacceptable topics

------------------------------------------------------------------------

1. Topics and posting policies from the ALT.USENET.KOOKS Charter

ALT.USENET.KOOKS is an inclusive on-line community of amateur radio operators and other people having an interest in the Amateur Radio Service. Participants are invited to engage in open discussion of amateur radio issues and exchange information about participating in the
hobby/service, in an atmosphere of civility, friendship, and fun.

Acceptable topics include but, are not necessarily limited to, questions and discussions about amateur radio licensing, regulations, tips on various aspects of setting up an amateur radio station, and sharing operating experiences and insights.

Unacceptable posts include, but are not limited to, buy/sell/trade posts, posts that are off-topic to the Amateur Radio Service, posts promoting or defending unlawful activities, etc. Crossposts of regular discussion articles between ALT.USENET.KOOKS and other discussion newsgroups are not permitted.

Frequently-Asked-Questions lists and other information/bulletin/announcement postings may be crossposted to ALT.MARQUEER-BI, REC.MORK.ANUS, and NEWS.SHEMALE-GAVIN only with prior approval of the moderators of those newsgroups. In all such cases, an appropriate "Followup-To" header, containing only ALT.USENET.KOOKS , will be added by the moderators if one is not already provided.

Posters are encouraged to state their own views and share their experiences, but to refrain from making assumptions about the motivations of other newsgroup participants. Posters are expected to maintain a basic tone of civility. Prohibited uncivil discourse includes, but is not limited to, name calling.

Posts containing unsolicited advice questioning the right, worthiness, suitability and/or readiness of any individual (or members of any group)
to be an amateur radio operator are unacceptable in this newsgroup.
If an individual chooses to post asking for advice on when or whether to obtain an amateur radio license, or to participate in any type of lawful activity in the Amateur Radio Service, respondents should be careful to address their comments only to the original poster and not explicitly generalize to others in similar situations.

Similarly, posts that arbitrarily declare certain classes of amateur radio licenses, or certain members of national amateur radio societies
(e.g., American Radio Relay League, Radio Amateurs of Canada, Radio Society of Great Britain, Wireless Institute of Australia, etc.), to be more or less worthy than others, are not permitted. Posts that politely encourage individuals to join their local amateur radio society, or to upgrade to higher classes of amateur radio license in order to enjoy greater operating privileges, are permitted, however. Posts that contain reasoned, civil, and fact-based discussion of the activities and internal politics of national amateur radio societies are also permitted.

Buy/Sell/Trade and Commercial Policy:

Posts containing offers to buy, sell, or trade are not permitted on ALT.USENET.KOOKS . The ALT.MORKY.TONGUE.TURD newsgroup was created for this purpose, and should be used instead. All such articles will be rejected by the moderators with the advice to re-post to that newsgroup.

Postings that are entirely commercial press releases, advertisements, or other public relations campaigns will not be permitted. Relatively unbiased announcements or reviews of new amateur radio-related products or services may be permitted at the discretion of the moderators. Such posters are asked to disclose their financial or professional interest, if any, in such products or services.

2. Additional Posting Guidelines

2.1 Netiquette guidelines

Participants who are new to Usenet should familiarize themselves with the "netiquette" of Usenet as well as the particular posting guidelines for this group. Several useful posts for "newbies" can be found on the newsgroup NEWS.DLOYD.ON-MY-MIND or on the WWW at:

http://ipunce.blogspot.com

Particularly helpful articles are:

2.2 Posting form requirements

Any article that falls into any of the following categories will be automatically rejected:

A) Articles that contain original text of more than 75 characters per line
B) Crossposted articles to newsgroups not included in these Guidelines
C) Articles that contain more than 400 lines
D) Encoded binary files (except PGP and other short digital signatures)
E) Attachments to posts
F) Articles containing obscene language
G) Articles from individuals who have been suspended or banned from the newsgroup

2.3 Guidelines on signature (.sig) files

Many people close each article they write with a few lines of common text. This may be a cute quip or quote, or may include information about their family, contact information, or disclaimers required by their employer, for example.

Signature files used on ALT.USENET.KOOKS posting must be no longer than 8 lines.

The content of a poster's signature need not be relevant to amateur radio, but it must not violate any of the other posting guidelines.
(For example, name-calling that would not be acceptable in the body of a message is also unacceptable in a signature.) Posters may include Uniform Resource Locators (URL's) and business addresses in signature files, provided they comply with all the other guidelines regarding signatures.

2.4 Guidelines on excessive quoting

Posts more than 20 lines long that also have more than 75% quoted text will be carefully reviewed by a moderator to determine if that degree
of quoting is warranted. Posts with excessive quoted text may be rejected.

Posters must show a reasonable effort to trim the post they are replying to and to include just enough material to establish context. "Me too!"
posts are discouraged, and, when posted, must edit the quoted material significantly.

2.5 Guidelines on pointers to outside sources

Unsolicited announcements and pointers to web sites that are strictly commercial press releases, advertisements, or other public relations campaigns, are not permitted. However, a pointer to a website or other

external source of information is permitted and encouraged in cases where it is relevant to an existing thread, with appropriate context being given in the post. A URL with no information about what a user should expect to find there will be rejected. A pointer to information that is off-charter for rec.radio.amateur.moderated will be rejected, as will a pointer which itself does not meet the ALT.USENET.KOOKS guidelines (such as a URL containing embedded name-calling).

Moderators are not responsible for verifying the contents of any external information source.

2.6 Guidelines regarding questioning someone's suitability hold an amateur radio license

Identifiable groups and individuals may not be asked/told/etc. not to obtain an amateur radio license, or to only obtain certain classes of amateur radio license. It is not permissible to make statements that a person or members of a specific group "should" not, or should not be allowed to, become an amateur radio operator.

Solicited advice of this type is permissible; however, posters must be careful not to explicitly generalize to others who are in some way "like" the poster asking the question. Stick to the individual asking for advice.

It is acceptable to discuss verified violations, documented in criminal convictions or other government enforcement actions, by a person or members of a specific group.

2.7 Guidelines regarding name-calling

Nastiness addressed at a person is considered name-calling. Criticizing a person's actions is not, provided that it is done in a civil manner.

Attacks on an action which by their very nature include an accusation against the person's character are not acceptable. For example, "That's a lie" implies an intentional prevarication, and is considered name-calling. Acceptable ways of questioning the truth of a poster's statement include the more tactful "I don't think that's true," "I believe you are mistaken because..." or even simply "That's not true."
"That's not true and you know it" crosses back over into name-calling,

however.

2.8 Guidelines regarding civility

By charter, posters are expected to maintain a civil tone in all their postings. The guidelines on name-calling cover part of that requirement, but not all of it.

In general, posters are expected to consider the reputations of other participants, and refrain from making unnecessary accusations or assumptions about the motivations of others. A good rule of thumb is to phrase your comments as your opinion -- "I think..." "It seems to me that..." "This makes me wonder whether..." etc...

Posters are expected to make factual claims, to debate topics openly and in good faith, and to accept honest criticism, all without provocation or prevarication. At least one professional organization, the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE), has recognized that such fair dealings are necessary components of ethical conduct, and has incorporated them into its Code of Ethics:

http://www.ieee.org/portal/pages/iportals/aboutus/ethics/code.html

Though the Amateur Radio Service is not a professional endeavor, the moderators strongly feel that the IEEE Code of Ethics is also a worthwhile set of guiding principles for participants in the ALT.USENET.KOOKS .

Posters are not required to support the American Radio Relay League (ARRL). However, they are expected to adhere to the spirit of the other parts of the ARRL's "Amateur's Code":

http://www.arrl.org/acode.html

2.9 Other unacceptable topics

Participants are reminded that the charter also prohibits posts promoting or defending unlawful operating practices.

Posts may discuss whether operating practices are unlawful, or engage in reasoned debate over why certain operating practices should or should not be unlawful. Posts may discuss enforcement actions, such as by the Federal Communications Commission in the United States or similar government agencies in other countries, and evidence gathered by parties

such as Official Observers in support of complaints about unlawful operation.

Discussions of what practices constitute unlawful operation in the Amateur Radio Service should be limited to factual descriptions of the laws in various jurisdictions. Posters' opinions as to what practices they consider unlawful are not permitted. In particular, posters are cautioned not to extrapolate their country's laws and regulations to those in other parts of the world, as they may be quite different.

Posts that entirely concern themselves with other radio services or hobbies, such as Citizen's Band, General Mobile Radio Service/Family Radio Service, and Scanner or Shortwave Listening, are considered off-topic to the "ALT.USENET.KOOKS " Newsgroups such as REC.MARQUEER.SCAT-EAT, ALT.GAVIN.WIFE, and/or REC.MORKYS.MOUTH may be more appropriate venues for such posts.

Posts that attempt to publicly criticize moderators or moderation decisions in the newsgroup itself are also not permitted, as stated in our original newsgroup charter. Please direct any such critical feedback to our administrative contact address at the bottom of this article, where it will be carefully considered by an appeals team of moderators. This team is distinct from the initial team of moderators that approves or disapproves article submissions, and thus can provide independent oversight of moderation decisions.

Similarly, if you see an obviously inappropriate article in our newsgroup, please assume that it was a mistake or a direct forgery.
The
moderation team makes every effort to protect the newsgroup from such incidents, but they do happen, albeit rarely. You may also submit feedback to the same address regarding such articles in our newsgroup,
but it is likely that our monitoring software and procedures have already detected it, and we are actively handling the problem.
Please resist "piling on" with followups to the newsgroup when these incidents occur, so that we don't have to reject such articles.

Please direct any comments, questions, or criticisms about this article

Read this one, please - even if you don't read any of the other "forwards" you get this year.

Thomas Sowell was born in North Carolina and grew up in Harlem. As with many others in his neighborhood, he left home early and did not finish high school. The next few years were difficult ones, but eventually he joined the Marine Corps and became a photographer in the Korean War. After leaving the service, Sowell entered Harvard University, worked a part-time job as a photographer and studied the science that would become his passion and profession: economics.

After graduating magna cum laude from Harvard University (1958), he went on to receive his master's in economics from Columbia University (1959) and a doctorate in economics from the University of Chicago (1968).

In the early '60s, Sowell held jobs as an economist with the Department of Labor and AT&T. But his real interest was in teaching and scholarship. In 1965, at Cornell University, he began the first of many professorships. His other teaching assignments include Rutgers University, Amherst University, Brandeis University and the University of California at Los Angeles, where he taught in the early '70s and also from 1984 to 1989.

Sowell has published a large volume of writing. His dozen books, as well as numerous articles and essays, cover a wide range of topics, from classic economic theory to judicial activism, from civil rights to choosing the right college. Moreover, much of his writing is considered ground-breaking -- work that will outlive the great majority of scholarship done today.

Though Sowell had been a regular contributor to newspapers in the late '70s and early '80s, he did not begin his career as a newspaper columnist until 1984. George F. Will's writing, says Sowell, proved to him that someone could say something of substance in so short a space (750 words). And besides, writing for the general public enables him to address the heart of issues without the smoke and mirrors that so often accompany academic writing.

In 1990, he won the prestigious Francis Boyer Award, presented by The American Enterprise Institute.

Currently Sowell is a senior fellow at the Hoover Institute in Stanford , Calif.

Now that the two parties have finally selected their presidential candidates, it is time for a sober-- if not grim-- assessment of where we are. Not since 1972 have we been presented with two such painfully inadequate candidates. When election day came that year, I could not bring myself to vote for either George McGovern or Richard Nixon. I stayed home.

This year, none of us has that luxury. While all sorts of gushing is going on in the media, and posturing is going on in politics, the biggest national sponsor of terrorism in the world-- Iran-- is moving step by step toward building a nuclear bomb.

The point when they get that bomb will be the point of no return. Iran 's nuclear bomb will be the terrorists' nuclear bomb-- and they can make 9/11 look like child's play.

All the options that are on the table right now will be swept off the table forever. Our choices will be to give in to whatever the terrorists demand-- however outrageous those demands might be-- or to risk seeing American cities start disappearing in radioactive mushroom clouds.

All the things we are preoccupied with today, from the price of gasoline to health care to global warming, will suddenly no longer matter.

Just as the Nazis did not find it enough to simply kill people in their concentration camps, but had to humiliate and dehumanize them first, so we can expect terrorists with nuclear weapons to both humiliate us and force us to humiliate ourselves, before they finally start killing us.

They have already telegraphed their punches with their sadistic beheadings of innocent civilians, and with the popularity of videotapes of those beheadings in the Middle East .

They have already telegraphed their intention to dictate to us with such things as Osama bin Laden's threats to target those places in America that did not vote the way he prescribed in the 2004 elections. He could not back up those threats then but he may be able to in a very few years.

The terrorists have given us as clear a picture of what they are all about as Adolf Hitler and the Nazis did during the 1930s-- and our 'leaders' and intelligentsia have ignored the warning signs as resolutely as the 'leaders' and intelligentsia of the 1930s downplayed the dangers of Hitler.

We are much like people drifting down the Niagara River, oblivious to the waterfalls up ahead. Once we go over those falls, we cannot come back up again.

What does this have to do with today's presidential candidates? It has everything to do with them.

One of these candidates will determine what we are going to do to stop Iran from going nuclear-- or whether we are going to do anything other than talk, as Western leaders talked in the 1930s.

There is one big difference between now and the 1930s. Although the West's lack of military preparedness and its political irresolution led to three solid years of devastating losses to Nazi Germany and imperial Japan, nevertheless when all the West's industrial and military forces were finally mobilized, the democracies were able to turn the tide and win decisively.

But you cannot lose a nuclear war for three years and then come back. You cannot even sustain the will to resist for three years when you are first broken down morally by threats and then devastated by nuclear bombs.

Our one window of opportunity to prevent this will occur within the term of whoever becomes President of the United States next January.

At a time like this, we do not have the luxury of waiting for our ideal candidate or of indulging our emotions by voting for some third party candidate to show our displeasure-- at the cost of putting someone in the White House who is not up to the job.

Senator John McCain has been criticized in this column many times. But, when all is said and done, Senator McCain has not spent decades aiding and abetting people who hate America .

On the contrary, he has paid a huge price for resisting our enemies, even when they held him prisoner and tortured him. The choice between him and Barack Obama should be a no-brainer.

CIMS00001003291 - Comments to the Chairman
Friday, July 18, 2008 3:15 PM
From: "FCCInfo@fcc.gov" <FCCInfo@fcc.gov>
To: toddaug555@yahoo.com

You are receiving this email in response to your inquiry to the FCC.

The FCC does not regulate the Internet or Internet Service Providers (ISPs). Contact your state consumer protection office or if there is possible fraud involved, contact the Federal Trade Commission or the Department of Justice's Internet Fraud Complaint Center.

There are currently no Federal or state laws regulating the use of or content contained on the Internet

The Department of Justice has a web site for reporting Internet-related crimes. Go to: http://www.ic3.gov

For other consumer issues: Go to the FTC website: https://rn.ftc.gov/pls/dod/wsolcq$.startup

The FCC does not assign Internet domain names, nor does the agency otherwise regulate the Internet or Internet Service Providers. Internet domain name registration is a service provided by private sector entities. Try a general Internet search using Google, Yahoo, etc., and the expression "domain names."

Modem Speeds: FCC Rules do not specify minimum requirements for baud rates and/or modem speeds over ordinary, voice grade phone lines. This means that the telephone company is not committing a violation when, for example, a customer has a 56 kbps (kilo bits per second) modem but is not able to transmit/receive data over the telephone network at the modem's full capability.

City, county and state consumer protection offices provide consumers with important services. They mediate complaints, conduct investigations, prosecute offenders of consumer laws, license and regulate a variety of professionals, promote strong consumer protection legislation, provide educational materials and advocacy in the consumer interest.

Fred Reed, was a police reporter for one of the large Washington newspapers. He now writes a column which can be goggled 'Fred on Everything'.

Blacks And The Politics Of Racial Extortion - Will It Work Forever?
By Fred Reed

Oh, Lord. I'd pull my hair out, if I had more. On the Web I find that Henry Louis Gates Jr, the chairman of Afro-American Studies at Harvard, is demanding that whites pay reparations to blacks.

It's because of slavery, see. He is joined in this endeavor by a gaggle of other professional blacks. I guess he'll send me a bill, huh?

I feel like saying, 'Let me get this straight, Hank. I'm slow. Be patient. You want free money because of slavery, right? I don't blame you.' I'd like free money too. Tell you what. I believe in justice. I'll give you a million dollars for every slave I own, and another million for every year you were a slave. Fair enough?

But tell me, how many slaves do you suppose I have? In round numbers, I mean...Say to the nearest dozen. And how long were you a slave?

Oh In other words, I owe you reparations for something that I didn't do and didn't happen to you. That makes sense. Like lug nuts on a birthday cake.

Personally, I think you owe me reparations for things you didn't do and never happened to me. I've never been coated in Dutch chocolate and thrown from the Eiffel Tower. I'll bet you've never done it to anyone. I want reparations. Kind of silly, isn't it?!

But if we're going to talk about reparations, that's a street that runs in two directions. You want money from me for what some other whites and blacks did to some other blacks in another century. How about you guys paying whites reparations for current expenses caused by blacks?

Not long ago blacks burned down half of Los Angeles, a city in my country. Cities are expensive, Hank. Build one sometime and you'll see what I mean. Whites had to pay taxes to repair Los Angeles for you. You can send me a check.

Now, yes, I know you burned LA because you didn't like the verdict in the trial of those police officers. Well, I didn't like the verdict in the Simpson trial, but I didn't burn my house and loot Korean grocers.

Over the years blacks have burned a lot of American cities: Newark, Detroit, Watts, Miami, on and on. Now add in the fantastic cost over the years of welfare in all its forms, of large police forces and jails and security systems in department stores. I can't live in the capital city of my own country because of crime committed by blacks.

Toss in the cultural cost of lowering standards in everything for the benefit of blacks. See what I mean?

Now, I'd view things differently if you said, 'Fred, blacks can't get anywhere in a modern country without education. We know that. We need better schools, smarter teachers, harder courses, books with smaller pictures and bigger words. Can you help us?'

I'd say, 'Hallelujah! Hoo-ahh! Not just yes, but hell yes. Let's sell an aircraft carrier and get these folks some real schools and get them into the economic main-stream.' I'd say it partly because it would be the right thing to do, and partly, because I'd like to add you guys to the tax base.

My orginal letter was sent after a group of individuals claimed they were going to complain to the FCC about my comment on the web. These individuals of course are HAM Radio operators. This may also prove to be a problem with the FCC case against Bill Crowell.

Using, say a amateur call on the net is legal according to the FCC, after all they should know, they issue them. But of course the real world already knows that call signs have no meaning on the net.

Now grow up and stop with the name calling.

Personally, I hate those Galaxy and RCI type radios. They are not very Todd if you are so starved for attention why not just go to HF ham radio and make a fine mess there instead of here in cyberspace? 14.275 MhZ during the daytime and a couple of freqs on 75 Meters at night should do the trick and you'll have every ham radio toilet tick flocking to hear 'The N9OGL Live Comedy Hour" like Herbie and Mike did on 14.313 almost 15 Years ago.

Hello Enzo

Yeah those galaxy radios are off frequency trash. A local guy here just bought a brand new one for his truck and it's a half channel off center slot, brand new in the box. He called them and they told him to send it back for an alignment. I've never heard a galaxy that sounded good.

I had one when I first got back into CB in 2003, because everyone raved about them. After about 6 months, I dumped it for a 2510. I had to reset the frequency on the Galaxy evey 2 weeks. The older PLL units like my Radio Shack TRC-455 blow it away as far as stability. Mine in one frequency after 30 years.

The FCC is not making sense here. Most radios are eaily modifiable. I don't get what they are doing here. QRZ is not profitting, as I don't think they charge for the swap.

Hey Todd! I am merely suggesting an alternate course of action for you. One which will make you possibly as famous as KV4FZ was in the 80's and 90's. Ham radio needs a new celebrety Todd, and now since Mr. Hollingsworth has retired and calls to the FCC ham radio help desk are one again going into a black-hole like they did while J.J. was running things at the Private Radio Bureau, the timing presents YOU with a unique opportunity. Oh well, I was attempting to HELP you Todd but you obviously can't see that forrest for the trees. What a shame. If you were to just get on 14.275 for a couple of weekends for 4 to 6 hours a day you would have as many people listening to you and hanging onto your every word as tthere are people watching The New Gong Show on FOX or Spike TV wherever it's at. Oh well, can't say I didn't try to help you become the next "Herbie Baby #1". Cheers!

I'm planning to get back on the radio hopefully soon, I need to do a little work on my radio. I've been too busy with work that I really don't have time to do anything on the radio. I'm also right now in the process of getting my pilots license, that I'm focusing my attention on that.

Prove where have I used Todd's name, or your call, or your wifes call, or anybody else's call for that matter, or commited any conspriacy, as I have had no contact with anyone else about you or the news group. Don't you find it amazing that so many who don't know each other, have no contact with each other, and have never met or spoken to each other, that based on your behavior, we have all formed the same conclusion, that your are a kooked out ASSHOLE!

That is not a conspriacy, that is just common sense showing itself you freaking mental patient.

I just suggested that based upon the response that Todd received from the FCC, it is not a crime to use such numbers or letters as an on-line ID, as I have seen many folks using my call for years as a on line ID, because it relates to another on-line group. Hell there are web sites that use my call as a web page address. Perhaps if you were to stop accusing folks of things that they have not done, they would not think that you were such a sniviling ASSHOLE!

No, never been convicted of any crime, but you don't care about telling more lies.

LE does do their job, including sorting out truth from facts, and apparently LE has concluded that you are full of lies. BTW I don't and never have used the term "bubba", like I said, you should stop with the false accusations.

I have not been told the truth, at least not by you. Only lies and fairy tales come from your keyboard.

If and when that day ever comes, that will be up to a jury to decide,
NOT YOU. So until that day, you are just spouting another one of your lies. There is a long road between spouting you baseless lies on usenet and getting a conviction, good luck on your quest, idiot.

I've never harrassed anyone or posted any lies or fantasies, that is your MO, most everyone now posts to the moded group to escape your nonsense. Just because you disagree with my opinion of Todd's anmie or your stupdity, it is not harrasment. You don't get to pick and choose at what responses you get based on the crap that you post. If you don't like the response then don't post. BTW Todd is big boy he can post on his own, like he has said, he does not need you to defend him.

Robotics is getting more advance all the time. The next 50-75 years will be something to see in this field. There have been predictions that by 2075 it will be routine for robots to do most of the dangerous work that is currently done by humans.

Actually, Woger and I never tangled much, before Deano announced Wiseman had been imprisoned back in 2000, and after that, well, I doubt he's been paroled for more than a few years, assuming that he has in fact been paroled at all. Considering that lack of certainty, I'd say it's pretty fucking obvious that the coward who's frogging Mark is the one who's been "assfucked so bad". If you weren't an obsessed, cowardly stalker/sometime-forger, or part of a group of such cringing, pathetic cowards, you'd reveal yourself, and own your nyms. But you own nothing, and you are nothing.

"Consider that language a moment. 'Purposefully and materially supported hostilities against the United States' is in the eye of the beholder, and this administration has proven itself to be astonishingly impatient with criticism of any kind. The broad powers given to Bush by this legislation allow him to capture, indefinitely detain, and refuse a hearing to any American citizen who speaks out against Iraq or any other part of the so-called 'War on Terror.'

"If you write a letter to the editor attacking Bush, you could be deemed as purposefully and materially supporting hostilities against the United States. If you organize or join a public demonstration against Iraq, or against the administration, the same designation could befall you. One dark-comedy aspect of the legislation is that senators or House members who publicly disagree with Bush, criticize him, or organize investigations into his dealings could be placed under the same designation. In effect, Congress just gave Bush the power to lock them up." -- William Rivers Pitt

"It has become clear in recent months that a critical mass of the American people have seen through the lies of the Bush administration; with the president's polls at an historic low, growing resistance to the war Iraq, and the Democrats likely to take back the Congress in mid-term elections, the Bush administration is on the ropes. And so it is particularly worrying that President Bush has seen fit, at this juncture to, in effect, declare himself dictator." -- Frank Morales

it holds even into the quantum but there observational confirmation is

block to field unification. For Dr. Einstein held out that a physical based field theory should be sought out and not left to quantum uncertainty of how the universe primly base works. Man made coordinate systems are fine without knowing from where or what is the base essence of what the space as deduced field is composed of, but not totally satisfactory. Anomalies keep space cropping up and scientists have to keep adjusting for these unexpected events. It's like a blind man that has memorized his physical surroundings to a point he feels very comfortable until that one new or unexpected event pops up and he's lost and fumbling." -- nightbat, in one of his more lucid moments.

An Irishman walks into a bar and asks for two beers. He then pulls a small green-skinned man out of his pocket and puts him on the counter. As he's drinking one drink and the green man is drinking the other, an Englishman down the bar who has had a few too many drinks says "Hey, what's that little green thing down there?"

The green man runs down the bar gives the Englishman a raspberry, "SPLBLBLBLT!," right in the face and runs back to the Irishman.

The Englishman mops himself off and says to the Irishman, "Hey, what is that thing, anyway?"

The Irishman replies, "Have some respect. He's a leprechaun."

"Oh, all right." the Englishman says sullenly. They all go back to drinking beer.

An hour or so later, the Englishman is really plastered. "Boy, that leprechaun sure is an ugly little b*stard!" he says. The leprechaun runs down the bar and gives the Englishman a raspberry again- SPLBLBLBLBT!

This time the Englishman is really mad! "Tell that leprechaun that if he does that again I'll cut his dick off!" he shouts.

"You can't do that" says the Irishman. "Leprechauns don't have those."

"How do they pee, then?" asks the bewildered Englishman.

"They don't," says the Irishman. "They go SPLBLBLBLBT."

Where have I stopped anyone from doing anything. Calling you an imbicile, when you are acting like a fucking idiot is not a crime. If you think I have commited a crime than call someone who gives a shit. But from what I have read, law enforcement rightly takes no action on your ficticious claims. Now fuck off kook.

"Chapter VII

WHAT HAVE THE JEWS CONTRIBUTED TO AMERICAN CULTURE?

The Jews have made a habit of saying, When someone goes to the Bible for criticism of Jewish things, that the Devil is fond of quoting from the Scriptures. I am afraid that, before they are through reading this book, it is not at all unlikely that they will accuse the Devil of having written them.

I call your attention to verses ten and eleven of the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy: "And it shall be when the Lord thy God shall bring thee into the land which He swore unto thy fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac and to Jacob, to give thee - (there will be) great and goodly cities which thou didst not build, and houses full of good things which thou didst not fill, and cisterns hewn out, which thou didst not hew, vineyards and olive trees, which thou didst not plant, and thou shalt eat and be satisfied."

The Lord might have added, in the same spirit: "And there shall be paintings and statues for you to appraise, breathe profoundly significant words over, and sell at a goodly price, which thou hast not conceived in thine own heart; poems to recite and put into eloquent anthologies which thou hast not written or encouraged; operas (containing prima donnas ready for seduction) which thou wilt parade pompously through the world's great cities, but which thou hast not taken the trouble to measure out; and the great businesses to inflate which were first conceived in the brains of the goyim, wrought into shape by the sinews of the goyim, but the profits of which shall legitimately be yours. All these and much more shall be thine for the adopting and adapting, that they may shine as a cultural light over thy dark heads, to remain a glory to Israel forever."

The author of Deuteronomy had a real understanding of the profound indolence of the Jewish national attitude towards the real work of the world. He brings it into light in more places than the passage I have singled out for quoting. He says nothing about the Jewish attitude towards the arts, for the very excellent reason that the Jewish arts then, as now, were quite non-existent. I have never paid much attention to the national Jewish reluctance to join in the manual labor of the world, although it has always seemed to me a very grave flaw in our character. But I have been annoyed by our attitude towards the arts, and once, in my book Now and Forever I tried to explain it away in the following manner:

"Zangwill: You don't seriously mean that you look upon the making of statues and paintings as harmful?

"Roth: Only the other day I was explaining this to one of your Georgian poets who was sharing tea with me in a dark corner of the Savoy dining-room. 'How is it,' he asked me, nodding a pig's head, 'that you Jews have contributed nothing to the plastic arts?' I took up the delicate saucer from under my cup and rapped it gently against his bald pate. He looked grieved but I hastened to explain myself. 'If you knew,' I said to him, 'that every time you made such a saucer it would split over your head, would you be anxious to continue producing them?'

"But the making of statues and paintings is harmful to us in yet another way. To survive, we Jews must love nothing better than ourselves. This is how the rabbis considered the matter. Once Jews take to the making of images, they would create in shadow and in stone, figures so much more beautiful, and so much more appealing than the figures in their own flesh and blood, that, being a people with a sense of justice, they would learn to prize them more. The rabbis feared that the presence within our sight of overwhelmingly beautiful figures sprung out of our foreheads, would degrade for us the people passing before us in the common robes of humanity." [22]

But no. Jews are not satisfied with understanding their barrenness. On the contrary, they must make it appear that the barrenness is an illusion. The desert is not a desert if it is a Jewish desert, but an orchard chocked with fruit trees. It is not necessary to even respond to the spirit of creation to prove yourself of a creative nature - if you happen to be a Jew. A pose is all the equipment you need. And so it has become an old Jewish habit to assume that the Jew has culturally enriched every country he has favored with his presence and his patronage. This lofty assumption, especially in the field of culture, comes instinctively to a people whose interest goes out to all things the pursuit of which involves the expenditure of a minimum of energy.

Many articles and books have already been written on the subject of how much the Jews have enriched America culturally. Needless to add, Jews authored them. And while it is undoubtedly true that Jews have given themselves over infinitely to the vain-show and inglorious barter which everywhere accompany the development of the arts and the sciences, I cannot find anything of value that they have themselves created in their two hundred and fifty years residence on the American continent.

This is true in science as well as in arts. In science, it is usual for the American Jew to invoke the names of Jacques Loeb in biology and Charles Steinmetz in electricity. But American Jewry's claim to these laurels is very vague. Both Loeb and Steinmetz were born in Germany. They grew up in Germany and developed their insights in German universities and laboratories. Having attained noticeable stature in their own countries, they were invited, as was Albert Einstein later, to make their homes in America. The invitations, even, came not from Jews but from non-Jewish organizations interested in scientific research and in whatever values these men could bring to the promotion of certain vast commercial enterprises. It had nothing to do with culture in the first place. And, in the second place, if it were a matter of culture, the Jews would certainly have had nothing to do with it. A cultural contact between these two scientists and American Jewry would have been unthinkable and abhorrent to the scientists. At no time while Loeb and Steinmetz lived in America did their lives even faintly touch the life of the Jewish community. If being in America meant anything to Jacques Loeb, it certainly did not crop up in his work which was a magnificent attempt to prove that animal (including human) life is as mechanical as any machine which we ourselves put together out of the raw and crumby materials of a disordered nature. As for Steinmetz, no man of his time worked harder than he to split up the poor electron which has neither race nor sex. It is difficult to imagine even his corpse at a Zionist rally.

In painting, sculpture and music the Jews conjure up a swarm of names. In painting as in sculpture there is not a name I would trouble to remember or repeat. In music it has become good form to praise the work of George Gershwin. But you have only to sound it next to the name of Edward McDowell to realize its hollowness.

In poetry, what Jewish names can we offer to place next to the names of Edgar Allen Poe, Walt Whitman, Robert Frost or Edwin Arlington Robinson?

The closest Jewish approach to poetry in America was in the work of a woman, Ada Isaacs Menken, a descendant of French Huguenauts in New Orleans, who for two years before the appearance of Leaves of Grass, published her Infelcia, in the same style, poetry both trenchant and lovely. She married a Jew in Baltimore, and her marriage was short-lived; owing to the untimely death of her husband. But she had become so strangely enamored of Jewish ideas that she continued to regard herself, for the rest of her life, as a guardian of the Jewish People. She began, after her husband's death, to publish a weekly periodical devoted to Jewish news and the discussion of Jewish problems, but found Baltimore too tedious, and moved her operations to Europe and England. In England she became the center of attraction for English writers and European writers who came to England to visit. [23] When all Jewry was excoriating Charles Dickens for the character of Fagin in Oliver Twist, it was she who extracted from him the promise that he would remunerate the Jews for the damage done them by creating, in another novel, the character of a good Jew. [24] But it should also be noticed that, after her husband, she never again made friends with Jews. She married again three times. Once she descended to the level of taking a prize fighter for a husband. But never another Jew.

Emma Lazarus repeated in English some of the plaintive melodies of Heine. But in her own right she was not a poet worthy of remembrance. The names of James Oppenheim, Alter Brody, Donald Evans and Joseph Auslander are repeatedly suggested. But they only testify to the Jew's eternal reaching out for honors which are beyond his reach. James Oppenheim's verses reveal the futility of an American Jew trying to climb to the prophetic heights of Issaiah on the ladder of Walt Whitman. Brody's free verse sketches of the Jewish east side have a thin, shrill lyricism; they no more make poetry than the sketches of Martha Wolffenstein which were written in unpretentious (and therefore more serviceable) prose. Donald Evans did achieve a measure of poetry. But his work, alas, broke down, prematurely, with his brief life.

He even achieve an imitator in the untidy verses of Maxwell Bodenheim. But no one will be grateful to him for that. So much for what the Jews have contributed to American poetry.

In the production of prose American Jewry is, if possible, even poorer. I understand that Robert Nathan who composed the novel Jonah is a Jew. I know that the author of Dark Mother, Waldo Frank, is a Jew. Pearl Buck, after spending twenty years as a Christian missionary to the heathen Chinee, confessed blushingly to being a Galician Jewess. But Nathan's is very insubstantial irony. Frank has begun splendidly some of the worse novels published within the last twenty years. And Pearl Buck is just readable enough to make an amazing exhibition of a cumbersome sentimental machinery. There is, of course, some merit in every one of these writers, I grant you. But can you make a national feast of such crumbs?

I am here reminded forcibly of a very portentous omission. If I did not mention him at all, as I feel I should not, people might conclude that I had either forgotten him or that it would not save my theme to measure his value. I mean, of course, Ludwig Lewisohn, the author of Upstream, The Case of Mr. Crump, and a dozen other books with which he has harassed the press within the last two decades. He has attained no mean measure of popularity as a writer of fiction, and even some stature in the critical esteem of the nations as an artist. Years ago, I recollect, I picked up a book of pleasing translations By Mr. Lewisohn from modern French poets. I have never been pleased by anything from his pen since. As a writer, he seems to me gross, vulgar and insincere. When Upstream appeared, American Jewry made such an issue of it, that nearly fifty thousand copies of it were sold before it was generally realized that it was almost impossible to read the book. The immense vogue which Upstream enjoyed, described two tragic spectacles: a popular book that nobody could read, and a newly discovered writer who had gone lost before you could take a good look at him. Israel which followed it was a hodge-podge of Jewish ideas by a Jew only recently converted to Judaism. The Island Within revealed hitherto unsuspected narrative powers. If Mr. Lewisohn practiced long enough, you feel he might qualify as a contributor the Saturday Evening Post. The Case of Mr. Crump was still easy reading. But it saddened hope for Mr. Lewisohn's future as a popular writer. It was now apparent that Mr. Lewisohn too his practice too seriously. There is scant comfort for American Jewry in the prose of Ludwig Lewisohn.

We have, however, made one contribution to the scene of letters in the United States which it would be vain for us to try to pass over. It has made so deep an impression on the life of the continent that it would be difficult to equal in the literary annals of any other country. It is a contribution no one will dispute with the Jews, because it is such an unpleasant one. I mean the gossip-column as invented by Walter Winchell and developed by Louis Sobol, George Skolsky and a dozen other Jewish journalists throughout the United States.

The Winchell idea was a very simple one. People want news, and the majority of the people have a stomach only for news with a certain amount of spice in

it. But there is a limit to the amount of spice to be found in regular news. Even a newspaper like The Graphic (in which Mr. Winchell was permitted to develop his new Journalistic formula) could not stretch interest in the shabbier tragedies of a day beyond a certain point. But Mr. Winchell had made a very interesting discovery. There was a borderline between vital people and the things they would do or might do that provided a much richer field of contemplation for the reader who wanted more spice than even the spiciest news could offer. To exploit this rich, virgin soil was Mr. Winchell's happy inspiration.

I do not know whether Mr. Winchell approached any other newspaper publishers with this idea. The records have it that he came to Bernard Macfadden, just as Macfadden had announced his intention of starting an afternoon daily tabloid for New York City. There is certainly no doubt that Mr. Winchell found a natural home in the Graphic which was reputed to enjoy a total of nine million dollars worth of libel suits against it when it discontinued publication. At any rate, Mr. Macfadden was the only other Jewish newspaper publisher in New York, and it was inconceivable that Mr. Ochs who professes interest only in "news fit to print" would have given him a hearing. The Winchell-Macfadden combination was, in the language of Broadway, "a perfect natural."

"I am offering you," explained Winchell, "a new departure in Journalism, maybe in Literature. Something to give a life to your newspaper that will not be enjoyed by any of the papers competing with you. I will explain to you, by example. Here is a morning paper. Do you see this paragraph announcing a birth in the Gould family? Pretty flat, don't you think? But suppose you had printed a week ago that one of the Goulds anticipated a blessed event? Wouldn't that have been much more exciting? Here is an item about a divorce in one of New York's most famous theatrical families. They'll never let the details ooze out, probably too slimy. So of what interest is the divorce? But what excitement there would have been if a month ago I had printed in my column a hint that the home-fires in a certain theatrical household were beginning to burn low! Get me?

"Where will I get my information? Simple enough. Such stuff drifts in by the carload through the mail and the telephone into every newspaper office. As newspapers are constituted today they cannot use nine tenths of this information. In the first place, it is never authentic enough. In the second place, there is always danger of a libel suit. What is needed to bring this mass of really exciting news into the newspapers? A new language. English, yes. But an English with more than one meaning. An English with words of possible three or four different kinds of meanings. An insinuating, clear-hinting, spicy language. And it wont matter whether your information is correct or not. You can practically manufacture your own sensations."

This is what Mr. Winchell proposed to make of a column, the medium which once served Eugene Field and still serves Heywood Broun. What he has done, and how successfully he has done it, are matters of record. His manner and methods were very swiftly aped - by other Jews. Yes, there are a few gentiles who do gossip-columns, but they are conspicuously unsuccessful. The success of the gossip-columnist depends on his ability to shamelessly stick his nose into the most private affairs of people of importance, and on the reckless courage to give publicity to what he learns, regardless of how devastating its effects may be in the lives of the people reflected on. The work of some of the columnists is occasionally covered with a fine film of blackmail. But that is, after all, within the national tradition.

What then? We have certainly partaken of the lustre of the intellectual life of America. But have we added any rays or radiance to its glitter and charm? It would seem not. But that has not prevented us in fulfillment of all the prophecies, from making a good business of the light we found. In the matter of poetry, for instance. Not in all their combined lives have Poe, Whitman and Frost earned what a well known Jewish salesman of Jewelry earns every year by gathering together their best work, as well as the best works of dozens of other American poets, into anthologies, where they may shine next to "poems" of his own. The same thing happens in painting, in sculpture, and in music. The Jew comes into the concert hall as if the very life of music depended on him. As a matter of fact he is only there to make a collection.

Do you remember, Herbert, one of those innumerable discussions held one night in my West Eighth Street bookshop on what was wrong with the American novel? Let me recall it to you. John Gould Fletcher, in New York on one of his visits from England, had walked in on us accidentally. Karl Wisehart was there too: at that time he was toying with at least three potential novels of Negro life in the south. Minna Loy (of the white brow, long gold earrings, and rambling free verse poems in The Little Review) was smoking comfortably and studying the sounds of our voices. I believe we had also with us that Jewish writer of gypsy stories whose name it is always good taste not to remember.

I don't know how it happened, but the talk had fallen on poor Washington Irving, and someone said what a pity it was that he took such pains with a landscape to which he seemed to have not the faintest human attachment. Fletcher observed, further, that Herman Melville's persistent preoccupation with foreign scenes made it appear that he was, during his whole life in full flight from American things. Someone else - and that might have been you - spoke briefly of the cheerless inventions of James Branch Cabell. I, it must have been who added that Theodore Dreiser's ox-like nibblings at American life suggested the enthusiasm of a man feeding on a diet of sand. And I think it was Karl who pronounced the inevitable conclusion which we all accepted without further argument. American literature suffered because of the absence in America of a real love for the American scene.

"What else is there to writing?" cried Karl. "What is the whole magic of a Tolstoy, a Flaubert, a Dickens, or a Hawthorne? Every page of Tolstoy reflects as in a mirror Tolstoy's love of the Russian land and everything that flowers and crawls on it. The prose of Flaubert is a reproduction, in the most exquisite miniature, of the flora and fauna of France. So anxious was Flaubert to give his writing the natural scenes of the soil of France, that he winnowed out of it even the shadow of an intellectual life. Dickens, like Fielding before him, had only the most perfunctory interest in natural landscape, but there was not a department of human life on the British Isles that was safe from his prying and tender eyes. And had not New England been morally as well as physically frozen, Hawthorne might have been easier to take to one's heart. Since Hawthorne, for all American writers have cared about, we might as well have given our country back to the Indians."

Karl exaggerated, of course, as people usually do in such discussions. But in the main I think he was correct that night. The arts spring forth only out of the love of man for the life in which he is rooted, from his attachment to that part of the earth which he has made his home. It is a man's performance of the double function of taking root and making a real marriage with his country which constitutes culture and civilization. The offspring of such a marriage are good books, paintings and statues - jewels which the earth yields up only to the most persistent and energetic of her wooers.

What a sorry spectacle the Jew makes on this continent which he pretends to have enriched! Not only does he fail to contribute any glamour to the scene. He does not even contribute man-power. He does not dig wells, plough fields, forge skyscrapers, lay bricks, cut out trenches, spin wheels, bake dough, fell trees, pack tin cans, sweep streets, heave coal, fire furnaces, weave cloth, dig subways, raise ramparts, wall floods, rivet bridges, hinge gates, or fight fires. Even at a time like this, when more man-power is offered this country than it can; alas, utilize, it cannot be disputed that quite as important as the vision of an artist who swings a nation from goal to goal, is the man-power with which the vision is reached and passed on the way to the next. Towards the man-power of America Jewry contributes only that which it catches in its own sweatshops, as in so many rat-traps - set by itself. It seems to be part of the Jew's unwritten code that he should never work. Unless something happens to change his vision, I venture to add that he never will, either.

[22] Since writing these lines I have realized the unsoundness of the thought which underlies them. At no time have the goyim held against us the few honest contributions which Jews have made to the arts in Europe. Russia has never thrown at the heads of Jews any of the statues of Antokolsky. Nor has any Englishman tried to stop a Jew's mouth with one of the drawings of Jacob Epstein.

[23] Swinburne wrote his lustful Dolores to her and posed with her in a photograph which the British Museum will let you look at if you can show the librarian a doctor's certificate.

[24] Dickens kept his word. The "character" he eventually produced was good alright, but outside of his name he had no Jewish qualities by which he might be recognized as a Jew.

One day I met a sweet gentleman and fell in love. When it became apparent that we would marry, I made the supreme sacrifice and gave up beans.

Some months later, on my birthday, my car broke down on the way home from work. Since I lived in the countryside I called my husband and told him that I would be late because I had to walk home. On my way, I passed by a small diner and the odor of baked beans was more than I could stand. With miles to walk, I figured that I would walk off any ill effects by the time I reached home, so I stopped at the diner and before I knew it, I had consumed three large orders of baked beans. All the way home, I made sure that I released ALL the gas.

Upon my arrival, my husband seemed excited to see me and exclaimed delightedly: "Darling I have a surprise for dinner tonight!"

He then blindfolded me and led me to my chair at the dinner table. I took a seat and just as he was about to remove my blindfold, the telephone rang. He made me promise not to touch the blindfold until he returned and went to answer the call.

The baked beans I had consumed were still affecting me and the pressure was becoming most unbearable, so while my husband was out of the room I seized the opportunity, shifted my weight to one leg and let one go. It was not only loud, but it smelled like a fertilizer truck running over a skunk in front of a pulpwood mill. I took my napkin from my lap and fanned the air around me vigorously.

Then, shifting to the other cheek, I ripped off three more. The stink was worse than cooked cabbage!!!

Keeping my ears carefully tuned to the conversation in the other room, I went on like this for another few minutes. The pleasure was indescribable. When eventually the telephone farewells signaled the end of my freedom, I quickly fanned the air a few more times with my napkin, placed it on my lap and folded my hands back and feeling very relieved and pleased with myself.

My face must have been the picture of innocence when my husband returned, apologizing for taking so long. He asked me if I had peeked through the blindfold, and I assured him I had not.

At this point, he removed the blindfold, and twelve dinner guests seated around the table chorused: "Happy Birthday!"

I fainted!!!!!!!!!!!!!

Girls....
If you want to piss off your mother, here's what I suggest.
The next time you're out driving around, and your mum's in the car, stop in front of the local strip club.
Put the car in park, turn to your mother, and say, "I'll be right back. I just have to run in and pick up my cheque."

Howard is 95 and lives in a senior citizens home. Every night after dinner, Howard goes to a secluded garden behind the center to sit and ponder his accomplishments and long life.
One evening, Mildred, age 87, wanders into the garden. They begin to chat and, before they know it, several hours have passed. After a short lull in their conversation, Howard turns to Mildred and asks, "Do you know what I miss most of all?"
She asks, "What?" and he replies, "SEX!!!" Mildred exclaims, "Why you old fart, you couldn't get it up if I held a gun to your head!"
"I know," Howard says, "but it would be nice if a woman just held it for a while."
"Well, I can oblige", says Mildred, who gently unzips his trousers, removes his manhood and proceeds to hold it. Afterward, they agree to meet secretly each night in the garden where they would sit and talk and Mildred would hold Howard's manhood.
Then, one night, Howard didn't show up at their usual meeting place.
Alarmed, Mildred decided to find Howard and make sure > he was O.K. She walked around the senior citizen home where she found him sitting by the pool with another female resident, Ethel, who was holding Howard's manhood!
Furious, Mildred yelled, "You two-timing creep! What does Ethel have that I don't have??"
Howard smiled happily and replied, "Parkinson's."

3268. Fight Back 2: Report Mark's spews to Google

Newsgroup: rec.radio.amateur.policy

Just as we were able to get Google to remove N9OGL's blog by clicking on an icon, it is possible that we can use a similar tactic to get Mark's Google Groups account(s) restricted or canceled. To help us out, you will need go to Google Groups first by using a link like

http://groups.google.com/group/rec.radio.amateur.policy/topics?hl=en

Choose almost any thread, and then pick out one of Mark's "zzz..." or other messages. You should see something similar to what is pictured at the link below:

http://tinyurl.com/6x3cyc

Click on the "Report this message" link, fill out the simple form, and submit it to Google (You do NOT have to be signed up with Google in order to make a report). If enough of us do so, Google should take notice and eventually take action to curtail Mark's spew.

I like to use the following text in the report form, which I modify slightly as required:

==(begin quote)==

This person (Mark Morgan) has been posting disruptive, identical messages through Google for over two years. When he reaches his posting limit on one account, he turns to another to continue his flooding. Regular members have been forced to start a moderated news group (rec.radio.amateur.moderated) to escape his abuse. On July 4th, he made 57 posts containing only "zzzzz ..." or "44444 ..." as a subject line.

==(end quote)==

Remember: It requires persistence; not a large number of complaints per day. Several of us are submitting one or two reports per day via the Google Groups form, and we intend to continue to submit such reports until we see some progress or hear from Google. The more people who complain, the better our chances are of being taken seriously by Google.

If Mark trots out new Google accounts, fine. We'll report them too.

If you can take the time out to make one nonsense post with respect to Mark, you can easily take the time out to file one daily complaint.

Thanks in advance for your help,
DeLorean

Delorean your a DICKHEAD and YOU need to be removed from the web. It seems to me you have nothing better to do with your time then harass people. Tell me, what are you doing on the HAM Discussion groups anyway?? are you a ham and if so what is your call sign?? How many post have you posted on here that is ham realated?? if not my suggestion is if you have nothing that is ham realated or dealing with ham radio then perhaps you should leave, for your encouraging this spamming, faking post and other stuff.

A few things to remember:

* Some people wear Superman pajamas. Superman wears DeLorean pajamas.

* DeLorean can slam a revolving door.

* DeLorean can touch MC Hammer.

* DeLorean has counted to infinity - twice.

* When taking the SAT, write "DeLorean" for every answer. You will score over 8000

* DeLorean can lead a horse to water AND make it drink.

* There is no such thing as global warming. DeLorean was cold, so he turned up the sun.

* If at first you don't succeed, you're not DeLorean.

* When Bruce Banner gets mad, he turns into the Hulk. When the Hulk gets mad, he turns into DeLorean.

I'm not worthy of standing in DeLorean's shadow. Why, only last month he visited the Virgin Islands. Now they're simply called "The Islands."

What did YOU do last month?

We don't know if Mark is banned or if he's being warned again. Did the Admin mean to say "No more, Mark" or is there really no more Mark in the ham group?

DeLorean did say that he was going to phone the Admin, and that's probably what got the Admin involved.

Now that DeLorean's back, Mark can't post through Teranews any longer, and the Admin of NIM Busters is cracking down on him. Yea for DeLorean!

It appears that Mark has been banned. He made a bunch of arrogant posts to NIM in which he claimed that he couldn't be stopped.

So the Admin "vanished" Mark's posts.

Looks like Mark was stopped. Thanks, DeLorean!

You are scared of being 'outed' because you are a pathological abuser of usenet, and people rightly despise you for it. You're afraid of being reported to the authorities or, better, visited by a couple of guys with baseball bats. Other people don't have this obsessive fear. Ward Hardman himself has posted plenty of personal information - nothing that anyone else added was hidden in any way. You're so fucking scared you've built up this whole sick mythology about different categories of bad dudes who 'out' scum like you.

"Meanwhile you are the ugliest pigfucker in the universe. You are the coward without ethics. You call me a 'newbie' - ha! what an asshole you are. Those who want to remain anonymous do so. There is absolutely no way you could identify me, not unless you had the sort of subpoena power that only gets turned on for big-time terrorists. That's because I chose to be anonymous. "When I told Abbie Hoffman that he was the first one who made me laugh since Lenny Bruce died, Hoffman said, "Really? He was my god." The combination of satirical irreverence and sense of justice that Bruce and Hoffman shared was the real spirit behind the Yippies--a term I coined to describe a phenomenon that already existed: an organic coalition of stoned hippies and political activists who engaged in such actions as throwing money on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, then explaining to reporters the meaning of that symbolism. Folksinger Phil Ochs summed it up: "A demonstration should turn you on, not turn you off." So when journalists link the Yippies with misleading bedfellows, at best it's careless shorthand; at worst it's deliberate demonization. Osama bin Laden wanted an aircraft to crash into the Pentagon. Abbie Hoffman merely wanted to levitate it." -- Paul Krassner, http://tinyurl.com/ehu3v

every way. I have so many interests that there probably is some broad common ground between myself and about anyone. I love to talk about D/s and BDSM issues and interests, and have been generally regarded as a funny guy to hang out with who has a good head on his shoulders. Send me a message for anything else you'd like to know!

"WRONG! The plays of Aristophanes prove that the overwhelming majority of Athenians were straight and idiogenogamotics were ridiculed as either being effeminate or only doing kologamosis in return for political or financial favours. If this was not so then Aristophanes would not have mocked the politicians in the front seats as boy fuckers (kologamosis with young boys will illegal in ancient Athens and those engaging in it were banned from holding elected office) or made numerous bum gags, or brought naked girls on stage for an all male audience to represent peace or written plays featuring female prostitutes. Hellenistic romantic fiction such as the Aethiopica also disproves your claims that women were only regarded as baby making machines. Menanders Dyskolos also disproves your claims as does book 3 of Apollonius Argonougtica and Euripides Hellen. Kolofilia was nothing more than masturbation. Just ask yourself why it was only with a man and adolescent boy. Because it was easier for the giver to think the receiver was a young girl than if it was with a man the same age. He might as well have fucked a sheep or a goat. So to get back on topic, it makes you wonder why RTD made Captain Jack an omnisexual, read complete wanker." -- Poutso kelftis on a frothing rage, in Message-ID: <5rKdnXHmXv_OxAzanZ2dnUVZ8tOmnZ2d@eclipse.net.uk>
